'Gratifying' Turnout for Dedication of New City Hall

CROWD GATHERS FOR CEREMONIES

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

A crowd of more than 400 persons filled the Common Council Chambers Sunday afternoon at formal dedication ceremonies for Kingston's new city hall on Meadow Street.

Mayor Francis R. Koenig, for one, was "overwhelmed" and "grateful" for the size of the gathering. "The people of Kingston have always shown an interest in their city," Koenig said, "and your attendance here today indicates renewed interest in the future." Koenig said in conclusion of his formal remarks. "It was very gratifying," he told The Freeman later.

The formal ceremonies were brief, lasting no more than 40 minutes. The Troop 12 Indians Drum and Bugle Corps provided music; Officer Richard Scherer sang the National Anthem; and Mayor Koenig raised a flag donated by Mrs. Amelia Turk in memory of her late husband James. That flag had flown over the old city hall at 408 Broadway.

Invocation in the Council Chambers was by the Rev. Alfred Pizzuto of St. Joseph's Church and by the Rev. Jesse

W. Kitchen of the New Central Baptist Church.

Harry J. Rigby Jr., city historian, served as moderator for the program and opened the formal speeches with a brief review of the city's history.

Rigby termed the dedication "the crowning point" of the city's ongoing "centennial celebration." He said city hall was a "birthday gift to Kingston." Rigby noted that the cornerstone on the new building read "1971" but that "Frank Koenig had put a 'don't open until 1972' sign on it."

Rigby introduced former Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan

as the "godfather of the new city hall."

Visitors at the new city hall came away impressed. Story, Page 7.

Garraghan cited former Sixth Ward Alderman Joseph Epstein for his assistance on the city hall project, indicating that without Epstein's help he might not have gone forward with his plans in the face of initially strong opposition.

Garraghan attacked some of those opponents, briefly, in his speech yesterday. "Most uptown residents wouldn't care if all the land below Delaware and Hasbrouck Avenues fell into the Rondout Creek," he said.

He described the old city hall as "that monster on the hill," stating that "we just couldn't live in that building uptown."

Garraghan also said that the new building would serve the city "for the next 75 years."

He concluded by noting the recent growth in the Rondout area, pointing out the construction of the new firehouse, Rondout Gardens ("one of the most beautiful in the state") and the Rondout Neighborhood Center.

"This will be the best part of Kingston again and never doubt it," Garraghan concluded.

Garraghan's speech was followed by a presentation by Alderman Clifford G. Sinsabaugh (D-10th Ward) chairman of the council's Urban Renewal Committee of a (framed) color photo of the Uptown Parking Garage paid for and donated by the Kingston Area Financial Council (the city's banks).

Mayor Koenig, introduced by Rigby as "the father of city hall," like the other speakers, was brief, first thanking those who had worked on the dedication arrangements and for those who had attended and participated in the ceremonies.

"As you visit, you'll become more acutely aware of the many functions of city government," he said. "Our prime concern was for those who will use this building for many, many years. We feel we've attained this goal."

Benediction was offered by Rabbi Howard Gershon of Congregation Agudas Achim and the Rev. Donald Buddle of the First Presbyterian Church. Tours of the building followed the formal addresses.

Nixon, Kissinger Continue Talking

By United Press International

President Nixon conferred today with Henry A. Kissinger, his chief Vietnam peace negotiator, in their third meeting since the interruption Saturday of Kissinger's secret talks in Paris with Hanoi diplomats.

Nixon was to meet with Kissinger at the presidential retreat at Camp David, Md.

The latest round of private Paris negotiations, which began a week ago, was suspended until Dec. 4 to give both sides time for such consultations.

Nixon also wanted time to respond to objections in the Washington-Hanoi accord raised by South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu. Nixon was to meet with Thieu's personal emissary, Nguyen Phu Duc, this week at Camp David for a direct report on Thieu's position. Duc went to Paris early last week for briefings by Kissinger on his secret talks with Hanoi politburo member Le Duc Tho.

U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth C. Bunker and Thieu met in Saigon today for 15 minutes, apparently to discuss the status of the Paris talks. An embassy spokesman refused to discuss the nature of the meeting but Saigon government sources said Thieu's closest adviser, Hoang Duc Nha, flew to Paris Sunday to confer with South Vietnamese officials and added: "This is of course connected with the Paris talks."

The Saigon newspaper Tin Song (Live News) today predicted Paris peace negotiations will "make great developments in the coming days." The paper is partially financed by Nha, who is Thieu's nephew. During his trip to Paris, Nha conferred with Duc and reportedly carried a message from Thieu. "The fact that (press) Secretary Hoang Duc Nha, the closest personality to President Thieu, flew to Paris is an indication that the negotiations between the allies and the Communists will have great developments in the coming days," reported Tin Song.

"Observers in Saigon said the fact that President Nixon is willing to meet Duc is proof that he is paying much attention to the cease-fire position of the Republic of Vietnam and intends to study it," the newspaper said.

In Jakarta, Foreign Minister Adam Malik said Sunday President Suharto told Kissinger in Brussels last week that Indonesia was prepared to help monitor any Indochina cease-fire but that Jakarta first wanted clarification on a number of points. Malik said these points mainly concern the specific tasks Indonesia was expected to perform and who would pay the costs for Jakarta's participation on a control commission in Vietnam.

In his meeting with Nixon, Duc was expected to discuss Thieu's demand for more assurances that North Vietnamese troops in South Vietnam be withdrawn before a cease-fire goes into effect. Thieu has also expressed fear that a three-party agency that would be set up to supervise elections in the South would in effect be a coalition government that would usurp his authority.

Letter From 'Concerned' Deputies

Martin Denies 'Politics' Charges

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON A group of "concerned" Ulster County deputy sheriffs, in an "open letter to the people of Ulster County," said today that department policies require them to "play politics" or live with "the fear of losing our jobs."

The open letter was not signed. "We cannot mention our names," the deputies said, "because we would all be fired." The deputies maintain that they are required to guard private business locations, have been instructed to refrain from arresting persons for driving while intoxicated during the holiday season, and have been fired or relocated for writing "too many tickets."

The deputies were also highly critical of the wages they receive, stating, "... staying with the Sheriff's Department means economic disaster."

Ulster County Sheriff William B. Martin today expressed sympathy with the deputies' salary grievances, but categorically denied the allegations contained in the open letter.

Martin, who was not mentioned by name in the accusing letter, said, "My door has always been open for the men to come in and discuss their grievances, and it still is. I'll take the proper and necessary steps to correct the situation, and I'm sure I can convince the person who wrote the letter that he is completely in error."

Included in the open letter was a contention that deputies are required to guard the Miron Lumber Co. from 8 p.m. to 2 a.m. each day, and that the deputies are required to punch a time clock at Miron's between 2-7 a.m. "No one else in Ulster County expects or gets this type of special protection."

Martin said today that patrols were assigned to the Miron Redi-Mix site on East Chester Street after two incendiary fires there earlier this year, and because of troubles encountered during a protracted strike by some Miron employees. "Our responsibility is to protect that property," said Martin. He added that no patrols were assigned to the Miron Store on Route 9W.

The Sheriff also denied that he has ordered his men to refrain from writing "too many tickets." The deputies who wrote the open letter said that some of their co-workers have been fired or reassigned to guard duty at the jail because they had written as many as 20 tickets in one month.

The deputies also charged that a verbal departmental order was issued prohibiting DWI arrests "unless a man actually starts physically fighting you." They said the order was given so the department would not "look bad" during the holiday season.

Martin said he simply instructed his men to "make good, legitimate arrests" and said he wanted his men to "place more emphasis" on other more serious crimes.

Martin agreed that his deputies are underpaid, but said the salaries are determined by the county, not the department. The deputies were highly critical of the Ulster County Legislature for proposing "phenomenal" pay raises for the legislators. The starting salary for a deputy sheriff in Ulster County is about $5,900 per year.

Fjord Sub 'Escapes'

OSLO (UPI)—Prime Minister Lars Korvald said Sunday night his government allowed a foreign submarine lurking in a fjord for 14 days to slip out of Norwegian waters, an escape military sources said was meant to prevent any major diplomatic incidents.

Officials did not identify the submarine, but high navy sources said it was Russian—"undoubtedly a conventional sub of the 'F' or 'W' class." The F type is a conventional attack submarine while the W type is an older-generation guided missile sub.

During the hunt for the submarine in a 124-mile-long fjord in western Norway, sea and navy forces used radar and sonar equipment and depth charges without success, then announced the vessel was allowed to leave.

"I think we can say the submarine crew had a rather miserable time," Defense Minister Johan Kleppe said Sunday after the announcement that the submarine was gone. Defense officials blamed difficult geographic conditions for the submarine's escape from the Sognefjord. But military sources said the real reason was diplomacy.

They said discovery and capture of the submarine would endanger efforts to reduce international tensions, especially in light of current moves to bring East and West together at a European security conference.

Defense officials said in a communiqué that they did not establish the sub's identity.

"We do not want to engage in speculation about the nationality of the vessel," Kleppe said.

But navy sources said there was no doubt about its nationality. "With the kind of technical and electronic equipment used in the submarine search," one source said, "even the captain's hairstyle could have been identified."

The submarine was first observed by several inhabitants Nov. 12. Their reports touched off a widespread hunt which at one time even involved British helicopters.

Defense officials said surveillance would continue over the area, but that the main search was called off.

Holiday Toll 651; 23 Die in New York

By United Press International
The four-day Thanksgiving holiday period ended at midnight Sunday with more than 600 persons killed in traffic accidents.
New Yorkers experienced one of the least lethal Thanksgiving holidays in recent years as traffic deaths fell to a 12-year low of 23. The lowest previous toll in recent years was in 1960, when 23 persons also were killed in the stat.

Two of the state's fatalities occurred early Friday when a car smashed into an abandoned railroad station on Binnewater Road in the Town of Rosendale, then burst into flames. Dead were Gerald Burns, 23, of Route 3, Kingston, and William Barringer 21 of Tivoli.
A pre-holiday estimate by the National Safety Council said between 580 and 680 persons would die during the 102-hour period that began at 6 p.m.

local time Wednesday.
The safety council also estimated that as many as 30,000 persons would receive disabling injuries during the holiday period.
A United Press International count showed at least 651 persons had died during the holiday period.
California reported 58 traffic deaths. Ohio had 32. Texas 31. Wisconsin 28, and Florida and Tennessee each reported 26.
Seven states had no traffic fatalities. They were Wyoming, Vermont, New Jersey, South Dakota, North Dakota, New Hampshire and Alaska.
The generally bad driving weather during the holiday period was blamed for several accidents. In one, seven persons were killed Saturday night and five injured in a head-on collision on rain-slick U.S. 17 north of Chieftland, Fla.

Sunday Crash Injures Four

TOWN OF GARDINER
Four persons were injured early Sunday in a two-car collision on Route 44-55 near Lake Minnewaska.

Ellenville State Police said that Robert Chew, 28, of Colorado Springs, Colo., an airman stationed at Stewart Air Field, Newburgh, was driving west at 2:30 a.m. when a pickup truck coming toward him, operated by Darrel Millsaps, 17, of 28 Seeley Street, Walden, reportedly went out of control on a curve, crossed over the center line, and was in collision with Chew's car.

Chew and his wife, Marty Chew, 30, were taken first to Ellenville Community Hospital and later transferred to the base hospital at West Point. Chew suffered a concussion and head lacerations, his wife suffered injuries to her left leg.

Two passengers in the Millsaps vehicle, Jeffrey Purdy, 18, of Walden, and Linda Calyer 20 of Vails Gate were treated and released at the Ellenville Hospital.

Two youths were taken to Ellenville Community Hospital following a one-car crash on Granit Road near the Granit Hotel entrance in the Town of Rochester shortly before midnight Sunday.

Danny Brevill 21, of Box 445 C, Kerhonkson, the driver, and a passenger, Paul Hasbrouck, 18, of Box 8, Kerhonkson, were reported in "fair" condition today. State Police said Brevill was going north on Granit Road when his car went off the road overturned and landed on its top in the southbound lane. Brevill was issued a summons for speed not reasonable and prudent.

A passenger was injured and taken to Liberty Hospital in Sullivan County Sunday afternoon after the car in which he was riding struck a parked vehicle on Sugar Loaf Road in the Town of Denning.

Bryon Nordcoff, 19, of Suffern, suffered severe lacerations of the face when the car, operated by Frederick

'No Comment' On Smokestacks
KINGSTON
Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp. today declined comment on a Federal Aviation Administration report that the two 600-foot smokestacks it considers building near the Kingston Rhinecliff Bridge would constitute a hazard to air navigation.

The FAA report, released Saturday, said that the two smokestacks would have a "substantial adverse effect" on the airlines leading to nearby Kingston-Ulster Airport.

Central Hudson officials also declined to say whether they would appeal the ruling. An appeal must be filed by Dec. 24, or the FAA's determination will become final.
Central Hudson has proposed the construction of a steam-electric generating plant at the site of the old Terri Brickyard in the Town of Ulster. Officials have already said that the extreme height of the two smokestacks is needed to dissipate emissions from the stacks.

Board Okays Zoning Changes

Four of Six Approved

KINGSTON
The Zoning Board of Appeals approved four of six applications for variances at a public hearing last week, reserving decision on one other and granting adjournment on one other one.

Board Chairman James C. Plunkett told The Freeman today an adjournment was granted on an application from Ben and Caroline Marchetti, owners, and Dinos Koskoleta, the proposed purchaser, of 69-73 Lafayette Avenue, presently a two-family duplex, who sought a variance to convert one side of the duplex into two efficiency apartments. They also asked that a portion of the existing front yard be paved to provide two additional parking spaces.

Decision was reserved on an application from Julius G. Radatz, owner, and Carmelo and Linda Bertrone, proposed purchasers of a lot on Glen Street, to erect a one-family house "which will conform to all other building and zoning codes of the city." The lot contains 11,725 square feet while the zoning law requires 12,500 square feet.

Approved were applications from:
Bernard Goldman, owner of 1 Main Street, on a request to install one more apartment on the second floor and another apartment on the third floor of the building, bringing the total for the building to four apartments;
Kingston Trust Company, owners, and Alvin Werbalowsky, proposed purchaser, of 94-102 Peter Street for a variance to use the present building as a warehouse.

St. Mary's Benevolent Association, proposed purchasers, and Jova Manufacturing Company, owners, to erect a non-conforming building in an M-3 zone;

Thomas P. Fitzgerald, owner, and James Fisher, agent and attorney for owner, for a variance to increase the size of a building located at 64 Pine Street to accommodate his ceramic and marble business.

Mayor Lists Appointments

KINGSTON
Mayor Francis R. Koenig announced the reappointment of Benjamin A. Storms a full five-year term on the Kingston Housing Authority while at the same time making several announcements in regard to the Municipal Civil Service Commission.

Leon C. Miller, appointed by Koenig in August to fill the term of John J. Hogan on the Civil Service Commission, has resigned, effective Friday. Miller, in a letter to Koenig, said that he had not been aware of the detail and the time involved in the job. His resignation was accepted by the mayor "with regret."

Replacing Miller is Hogan, who the mayor says is well qualified for the position, having served as chairman during his first six-year term which began with his appointment by former Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan in 1966. Hogan's new term will run out in June of 1978.

Koenig also announced that Mrs. Elizabeth Keller, a member of the Civil Service Commission, had withdrawn her resignation, tendered about a month ago. Mrs. Keller will continue to serve until her term expires in June of 1976.

The Civil Service Commission is expected to meet early next month to elect a chairman. Hogan had been chairman at the time he was replaced by Koenig in August.
Hogan, a native of Kingston, is a former (old) Seventh Ward committeeman and is a member of the Kingston Democratic Men's Club. His wife, Rosemarie, who now serves as deputy city clerk, is also a former president of the Municipal Civil Service Commission.
The Civil Service Commission is considered one of the key agencies of city government. It establishes qualifications and conducts tests for the numerous Civil Service positions in the city and also acts as a board of review in Civil Service disputes.

ADJUSTMENT TIME — A technician adjusts the microphone of Alabama Gov. George Wallace before the taping of a news interview show. Wallace said there's little chance he'll walk again, but he expects to be strong enough to run for president in 1976 if he wants to. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Wallace 'Still Interested'

MIAMI (UPI) — Alabama Gov. George Wallace confirmed Sunday he probably will never be able to walk again, but said his paralysis would not be a factor in his possible candidacy for the presidency in 1976.

Wallace said he has not made any decision about running for President, but "I'm still interested in 1976. My doctors tell me I'm going to be physically able to do what I want to do by 1976 or even sooner."

Wallace, wounded last May in an assassination attempt at Laurel, Md., said he has not yet decided whether to seek reelection as governor of Alabama, but he indicated he would like to stay in office.

Wallace told a television news conference ("Meet the Press — NBC-TV) he goes to his office and handles his duties as governor, although he is still in the recuperative stage following the shooting.

"I would be physically able to be politically involved from now on," he said. But he added, "I don't do what it ought to do. I would be through as a national Democrat."

He would not say if he would consider switching to the Republican party.

He said he might have considered a third party candidacy this year if he had not been wounded.

"I would've considered running, but the chances are I would not have," Wallace said.

He said his acceptance and the Democratic convention had altered the conditions that led to his 1968 race under the banner of the American Independent party.

Wallace said a new party "might come into being" if the Democrats did not reorganize, but he said he had faith that the party would make the necessary changes.

He said he was using an office opened by some of his supporters in Washington, along with his political contacts, to work for the replacement of Democratic National Chairman Jean Westwood and the reorganization of the party.

"The party must be reorganized from top to bottom," Wallace said. "If this party system of electing Indian people by the Indian people themselves so that they can run as a commission or board, they can run the Bureau of Indian Affairs."

This is needed, he added, because all the government agencies and institutions from the presidency down to the BIA have failed in their stewardships of the Indian people.

Abourezk rejected a proposal by some Indian leaders that the BIA be abolished because that would make many Indians in very serious wrong with the way we've handled Indians affairs and that there ought to be something different done."

In a separate interview, Peter MacDonald, Chairman of the Navajo Nation, said the occupation and destruction of the BIA building in Washington demonstrated the extensive "despair and frustration" felt by Indians throughout America.

Abourezk, whose Lebanese father ran a trading post on the Rosebud reservation where he was born, said the government must stop trying "to wrench them (the Indians) away from their culture."

One solution, he said, would be to remove the BIA from the control of the Interior Department. "There ought to be some

Heart Victims... 'Seek Assistance'

CHICAGO (AP) — Many patients who die of heart attacks might be saved if they would seek medical assistance earlier, say two Maryland physicians.

Drs. Manning Feinleib and Michael J. Davidson of the National Heart and Lung Institute at Bethesda, Md., report on a survey of a Maryland suburban area of 250,000 population in the Nov. 27 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

"By far the greatest delay in the care of the patient with an acute myocardial infarction was his own unwillingness to call for help," they reported. Heart disease is the leading cause of death in the United States, and myocardial infarction accounts for the greatest percentage of these deaths.

In this disease, an area of the heart muscle is damaged or killed because of an insufficient supply of blood. Feinleib and Davidson studied the 719 recorded deaths of persons 35 to 74 years of age in Montgomery County for 1969. Of these, 257 died of coronary heart disease.

Security Conference in Helsinki

Western Diplomats to Adopt Rules

HELSINKI (UPI) — Western diplomats said today they will override Soviet objections and adopt a set of rules on how to run the forthcoming proposed European security conference.

The 34 ambassadors from the United States, Canada and 32 European nations are now in the fourth day of their talks on outlining the ground rules for the conference.

"Even a Boy Scout troop must have rules of procedure," one diplomat said in explaining why a Soviet attempt to have no rules at all collapsed.

He said hopes were high that these rules could be adopted today—almost record speed for an international meeting of this complexity—with the 34 ambassadors then getting down to the real business of a security conference Tuesday.

"We are doing fine," he said. "The Council of Trent in 1640 took two years to agree on rules of procedure."

Both the Soviet Union and France urged that the meeting dispense with all rules and go on to plan the agenda for a security conference. Both nations hope the security conference will confine itself to broad statements of principle. The shorter the preparatory talks, the more likely this is to happen.

Romania, the Soviet Union's often independent ally, led the opposition to this. It insisted on a set of rules and was supported by the United States and other Western nations—both because they also wanted the rules and because they hoped to encourage Romania's act of independence.

Privately, the other Communist nations were furious. East European diplomats dropped hints to newsmen that Romanian delegates were seen going into the Chinese Embassy, thus implying the Romanians were acting on China's behalf.

Over the weekend, the ambassadors and their staffs held rounds of private, informal meetings with other delegations in an attempt to coordinate policies or to eliminate disagreements before they reach the conference table.

Richard Toettermann, the Finnish chairman of the talks, circulated a 10-point list of rules which he would ask the meeting to approve.

These provide for decisions by non-voting "consensus," secrecy of meetings, publication of some documents, elimination of a vice chairmanship and an item backed vigorously by the Romanians—the sovereignty and equality of each delegation.

Handbook Tells About Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. senators receive wallet-size copies of their electorcardiograms, free ice, and speech-writing services from the Library of Congress.

They also are entitled to use plants from the Botanic Gardens for their offices, or reproductions of paintings and prints from the National Gallery of Art.

These are just a few samplings from a list of "allowances, emoluments and privileges" available to U.S. senators and published in a new Congressional Handbook.

The 204-page handbook was prepared by the Joint Committee on Congressional Operations. There is a companion volume for House members.

The handbook notes that senators automatically receive $45,000 in group life insurance coverage at a monthly cost of $26.82. The amount is based on their salaries of $42,500 a year.

A senator's allowance for staff help, and the size of his office suite, depends on how populous a state he represents.

Senators from states with a population of over 17 million—California and New York—are allowed $58,145 a year for staff costs. Senators from states with a population of three million or less receive $31,577.

Similarly, seven-room office suites are assigned to senators from states with over 12 million people (California and New York), six-room suites to senators from states with populations of 7 to 12 million (Pennsylvania, Illinois, Texas, Michigan, Ohio and New Jersey), and five-room suites to senators from states with less than seven million.

Choice of suites is on the basis of seniority.

Senators receive allowances for stationery, postage, telephone and telegraph, travel and offices in home states. These also are based on state population and, in the case of travel, on the distance between a senator's state and Washington.

Senators are given congressional license tags and have virtually unrestricted parking privileges in Washington.

The handbook offers advice on how to keep office files and write to government officials. It even tells the location of gymnasiums in the Senate office buildings.

To have the Library of Congress prepare a speech, the senator need only provide such information as what viewpoint he wants expressed, desired length of the speech, and the occasion for giving the speech.

But there is a limit, the handbook cautions. "Term papers, master's theses, and other research requests of constituents cannot be prepared," it says.

Suggests Indians Run Own Affairs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — James Abourezk, a newly elected Senator who was born and reared on a Sioux reservation in South Dakota, has suggested that Indians be allowed to run the government's Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA), the recent target of Indian hostilities.

Abourezk, a Democrat, said on UPI's "Washington Window" Sunday that the six-day siege at the BIA which caused an estimated $2 million damage showed "there is something very seriously wrong with the way we've handled Indians affairs and that there ought to be something different done."

In a separate interview, Peter MacDonald, Chairman of the Navajo Nation, said the occupation and destruction of the BIA building in Washington demonstrated the extensive "despair and frustration" felt by Indians throughout America.

Abourezk, whose Lebanese father ran a trading post on the Rosebud reservation where he was born, said the government must stop trying "to wrench them (the Indians) away from their culture."

One solution, he said, would be to remove the BIA from the control of the Interior Department. "There ought to be some

This is needed, he added, because all the government agencies and institutions from the presidency down to the BIA have failed in their stewardships of the Indian people.

In a separate interview, Peter MacDonald, Chairman of the Navajo Nation, said the occupation and destruction of the BIA building in Washington demonstrated the extensive "despair and frustration" felt by Indians throughout America.

Abourezk, whose Lebanese father ran a trading post on the Rosebud reservation where he was born, said the government must stop trying "to wrench them (the Indians) away from their culture."

One solution, he said, would be to remove the BIA from the control of the Interior Department. "There ought to be some

United Mine Workers Ready for Court-Ordered Election

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Members of the United Mine Workers next month pick a man to head their troubled union for five years. They'll do it in a bitter, court-ordered election conducted under unprecedented federal scrutiny.

During the first eight days of December, miners from the hollows of Appalachia to the coal fields of the West will decide on staggered voting days whether to retain the besieged president of the 200,000-member union, W.A. "Tony" Boyle.

Challenging the 70-year-old Boyle is Arnold Miller, 49, a former miner who is successor to Joseph "Jock" Yablonski, slain leader of the insurgent Miners for Democracy.

Boyle forces have focused their campaign on the accusation that the MFD effort is directed by outsiders who seek control of the union. Miller and others are described as stooges.

"True, many of the outsiders' charges are directed against me personally," Boyle told one of the weekend coal-country rallies that have made up the bulk of his personal campaigning.

"But believe me, the real objective of the outsiders' attacks is the union itself," said the diminutive, bristle-browed union chief.

"I'm no puppet," says Miller, maintaining that miners are running the MFD campaign and will run the union if he is elected.

Miller, who spent 24 years in the mines before black lung and arthritis forced him out, calls Boyle a dictator and "company man." Miller says Boyle is too sensitive to the needs of coal operators while being lax on safety and allowing miners to fall behind other segments of labor in benefits.

Boyle forces maintain that the contracts negotiated by their candidate since 1964 demonstrate the gains he has won for the union, particularly the latest one, negotiated in 1971.

The election was ordered by a federal judge after he invalidated for irregularities and law violations the 1969 balloting that saw Boyle defeat Yablonski. Shortly after the election, Yablonski, his wife and daughter were slain in their Pennsylvania home.

It was U.S. District Court Judge William B. Bryant's finding that resources of the union were misused by the incumbents seeking re-election in 1969 that prompted in part the scope of federal involvement.

More than 1,000 agents of the Department of Labor will supervise the secret-ballot election in some 1,500 polling places.

The extent of the department's involvement is a first in history, says a spokesman, and it carries an estimated price tag of $4 million.

The election is for full, five-year terms for president, vice president and secretary-treasurer of the union, as well as lesser officers.

Boyle is making the race under a five-year prison sentence and a $130,000 fine for making illegal campaign contributions with $49,500 in union funds. He is free on bail pending appeal. Both sides are claiming victory. Lewis E. Evans, chairman of the Boyle slate's "Pro-Union Team" campaign committee, says the response is better than in 1969.

In one printed appeal for funds, Evans took up the outsider theme: "The opposition, financed by rich men, tax-exempt foundations with much of the power and authority of the federal government at their beck and call, are piling up thousands of dollars, more than $500,000 so far, from outsiders and left-wing sympathizers to take over or destroy our union."

Evans declines to disclose how much the Boyle campaign has collected.

Miller places the contributions to his campaign at something over $60,000 and finds his own reasons for seeing victory. "For one thing, they can't lift off this time," he said, referring to the election irregularities of 1969 compared with this year's stringent controls.

William Anthony Boyle has run the UMW since 1963. The Montanan, son of an immigrant coal miner, was brought to Washington headquarters by the late John L. Lewis in 1948 as an assistant to the legendary union chief.

Miller, a West Virginia native, left the mines in 1968 and campaigned for black-lung legislation.

He says he has covered more than 100,000 miles by car, hitting two and three shifts of miners a day. Miller carries a head of graying hair, and a chint-to-cheek scar and a man-gled ear from wartime action in Europe.

The MFD forces feel their main strength is with active miners, rather than the some 70,000 pensioners and inactive men who retain voting membership. They feel expanded mine-site voting under the Labor Department's supervision is another plus.

Sealed ballot boxes will be shipped by locked truck, chartered bus or airliner to department offices in suburban Washington. Dec. 11 was allotted to dealing with challenged ballots, says a department spokesman.

Winding Up WW 2

A world war leaves many unsettled affairs. The two Germanys for one. For another, the continuing threat of the Soviet and its bloc over the rest of Europe. The other factor is United States nuclear umbrella and how long it will protect its post-World War II allies.

The next two months will be full of preliminary conferences: SALT 2 opened in Geneva Nov. 21 to deal with limitation of offensive weapons, the initial talks on European security began in Helsinki Nov. 22 and, if all else goes well, the talks on mutual balanced withdrawal of armed forces start in Switzerland Jan. 31.

No wonder diplomats are calling this series of conferences the most important since the Congress of Vienna in 1815. Then, Europe met after Napoleon's conquests to rearrange its borders and sovereignties. They set the pattern for most of the nineteenth century, though there were occasional flareups until the two world wars early in this century.

Th first world war settlements bred the second. The second world war destroyed both the British and French empires and raised the Soviet one. The United States was allied with what was left of western Europe. The two German states first reached their own accommodations. Now, the Soviets are ready to make final arrangements for all Europe.

For 33 years, the United States has kept a military presence in Europe to hold back further Communist advances. Some Europeans fear to trade off the American umbrella for unknown Soviet promises. There is some faint hope that a possible agreement to limit offensive arms will deter future USSR aggression in Europe, but very few would bank on this. The fears and tensions still exist.

If we are to withdraw our forces completely, as our and Europe's leftists urge, we must fully face what it will mean to us to be bounded on one side by a Europe entirely subject to Soviet power and influence; and on the other side by an Asia so dominated.

Nonsmokers' Majority

With the realization that nonsmoking adults now outnumber smokers two to one, nonsmokers are getting more and more active in seeking to spread bans on smoking in public places. They are more vocal in insisting on their "right" to breathe wholesome, fresh air, just as smokers insist on their right to cloud it.

A major bolster to many nonsmokers, in speaking out, was the 1972 report of the U. S. Surgeon General. It suggested, for the first time, that breathing smokers' air may be a hazard to the nonsmoker's health.

The climate for the growing assertion of nonsmokers' rights comes at a time when concern for air pollution is spreading. Says John F. Banzhaf III, executive director of Action on Smoking and Health, "Smoking is the most dangerous, objectionable, yet the most easily controlled form of air pollution."

Control is gradual, by appeals to the Federal Communications Commission, which required free broadcast time for antismoking messages; by successfully persuading some hospitals and super market chains to ban smoking; by discreet signs requesting no smoking in elevators and other public places; by no smoking in doctors' offices; and by nonsmoking sections in restaurants, airplanes and buses—the latter contested legally.

What the nonsmoking advocates are trying to avoid is a militant "nonsmokers arise" approach. It would probably be nonproductive at this point, while the personal and group approach is scoring success after success.

DISCIPLINE FIRST — Denying reports that discipline in the FBI is out, Acting Director L. Patrick Gray 3d said, "I know, and every man and woman in the FBI knows, that the bureau would self-destruct without discipline . . . colored shirts, hair worn a bit longer and a few mustaches are not going to wipe out the fierce pride that exists within the hearts and minds of the men and women of the FBI." That just about tells the detractors.

Jack Anderson Says

Coca Cola's Private War Chest

WASHINGTON — Coca Cola is raising a private war chest to preserve its franchise system, which antitrust experts claim costs the consumers an extra nickel for every bottle of Coke.

The franchise system, which grants exclusive territories to bottlers and permits them to set prices within their own territories, is under fire from the Federal Trade Commission.

The arrangement curtails competition within the exclusive territories and allows bottlers to peg Coke prices at an artificial level. This is viewed as an antitrust violation by the FTC, which has filed suit.

The outcome will also affect other soft-drink bottlers who operate under a similar franchise system. These franchises cost the consumers an estimated $1.5 billion a year in inflated prices.

The Coca Cola crowd don't intend to give up their extra nickel a bottle without a fight. In 1971-72, they collected a $280,000 slush fund from the bottlers to fight the FTC. Now the bottlers are getting up another pot for 1973.

In a confidential memo, the Coca Cola Bottlers' Association has assessed all its bottlers from $50 to $1,000 to build up the "Franchise Defense Fund."

The money, says the memo, will be used "to continue the all-out fight to preserve our present franchise system at the Federal Trade Commission level and in the courts . . . The bottlers are called upon to uncup their treasuries and "pay promptly since funds are needed now."

The proceeds will go largely to lobbyists and lawyers, who not only are battling the FTC in the courts but appealing over its head to Congress. They have already lined up some 40 Senators and 240 Congressmen who are willing to exempt soft-drink bottlers from the antitrust laws—no matter what it will cost the consumers.

The legislators claim they merely want to protect small businessmen. The truth is, of course, that Coke controls 42 per cent of the soft-drink market, and soft drinks have replaced coffee as the national beverage.

Among the "small businessmen" in the bottling business are Westinghouse Electric, General Tire and Rubber, General Cinema, Illinois Central Industries and other corporate giants.

Footnote: Senate Antitrust Chairman Phil Hart, D-Mich., who discovered that conglomerates are moving into the bottling business, has called for more testimony during the next session. But sadly, he has found that some small bottlers are willing to talk to his staff but unwilling to testify. They fear retaliation from corporate headquarters.

Federal Manna

All across the country, impoverished mayors are salivating over their first federal revenue-sharing checks, which the Treasury Department will start mailing out next month.

But the U.S. Conference of Mayors has warned them, please, not to rush out and buy a limousine with their new federal money.

In a private memo, the U.S. Conference cautions its 750 mayor-members: "The media is now with us, and we must not lose their support. The first story reporting a local official buying a new limousine and hiring a chauffeur with federal general revenue sharing would give the cities a black eye and perhaps cause efforts to renew the program to go down the drain."

The memo also warns that "a number of national citizens groups have already indicated their plans to monitor the program on a national scale. No doubt, some cities will find local citizens groups emerging to do the same . . ."

But even more important, says the memo, congressional scrutiny will be close. "We remind you that the powerful Appropriations Committees in both Houses strongly objected to the funding mechanism of this legislation and sought to kill the program on many occasions. These two powerful Committees have not had their last word on this program."

The memo didn't mention it, but we also will be watching how the money is spent.

Smithsonian Exposure

The new "Smithsonian" magazine features an eight-page article on Yankee sculptor Hiram Powers. Its author is Robert Hilton Simmons, identified in "Smithsonian's" blurb as "currently preparing a book on federal art programs."

What neither the Smithsonian nor its autocratic secretary, Dillon Ripley, may know is that Simmons' book is actually a biting, personal expose of Ripley himself and his management of the Smithsonian funds. Moreover, the ingenious Simmons has financed the research for his anti-Ripley book through the sale of a fine Japanese painting to one of Ripley's museums.

Not only has Simmons written against Ripley, but he has testified in Congress against what he calls Smithsonian financial irregularities. This has ignited a General Accounting Office probe into Ripley's handling of the museums.

A New Wardrobe for the Next Four Years?

David Lawrence Says

Trade Relations Vital

WASHINGTON — President Nixon during the next four years will have plenty of problems of foreign policy to keep him deeply involved in efforts to bring about a unity among Communist and non-Communist countries to rid the world of any fears of war.

Arms limitation and reduction of forces in Europe and Asia are not the only steps, however, that can assure peace. Mr. Nixon's endeavors may turn out to be one of the most effective instruments in increasing the opportunities of diplomacy to make progress in treaties and accords which are so necessary to remove the anxieties aroused from time to time about the possibilities of military conflict.

The most vital factor in the making of peace is unquestionably the decisions which may be reached concerning nuclear weapons. While agreements are being made to limit strategic arms, there will not be a feeling of security in the world until the nations which have nuclear stockpiles agree to destroy them and to employ nuclear power solely for peaceful purposes. It is conceivable that the new series of talks the United States and the Soviet Union have begun may reassure other countries that the two governments with the biggest military forces and largest potential strength in a nuclear conflict now are discussing what can be done to remove the dangers of drifting along with huge implements of destruction in the possession of a few governments which could at any time use them unwisely.

The Soviet Union, the United States and Red China have at one time or another urged that all nuclear weapons be abolished, and there have been conferences with various other countries relating to the same objective. But the real obstacle seems to be that thus far no way has been found to make sure that such action, if pledged, would actually be taken. Unless international inspection of a very efficient kind were instituted, there would be no means of determining whether the promises were being fulfilled.

But certainly the road toward disarmament, particularly with respect to nuclear weapons, has in recent months been traversed by all the leading nations of the world. It is believed that closer relations between the United States and China and between this country and the Soviet Union are going to be very valuable in reducing the possibility of a major war.

For the United States has opened up advantageous methods of promoting trade and helping nations develop their economies so that many products which their people have been unable to get can be imported.

Actually, a change of historic significance is going on in the expansion of trade by both Russia and China, with opportunities afforded for friendly contacts with other countries where the necessities of life can be purchased and brought to the huge populations of the Communist nations. The world is passing through a truly notable era in trade which President Nixon himself has assisted in developing and in which Peking and Moscow have played an unprecedented part.

With commercial relations improving between the Communist and the non-Communist countries, the chances of war will be diminished as intercourse of peoples with their neighbors and with other nations around the globe grows.

The need for nuclear arms will surely seem to pass when a genuine peace is established in the world. The money which has gone into military spending can then be used not only to help the people of undeveloped areas to fare better but to enable the many millions of citizens of very populous countries to enjoy the better homes and facilities they have not been able to get heretofore.

If life can be "normalized" both in Red China and in the Soviet Union, real progress will have been made toward an era of peace, because it will be the result of international goodwill and the efforts of the governments of other nations to make it unnecessary for the world to live in constant fear of war. This is what President Nixon really wants when he talks of "a generation of peace."

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Couldn't Write Marilyn's Tragedy

"Take Feeny on four," the assistant city editor said. I put a headset on and pushed a button number four on my desk. "Harry," I said, "this is Jim Bishop. What's on your mind?" His voice was pitched to the meticulous whine of the legman. "Little girl killed by a trolley on Bushwick Avenue," he said. "The desk only wants a paragraph."

I ran some copy paper into the typewriter. "Go ahead," I said. It was a cold, cold day before Christmas. The steam pipes were hammering in the back of the city room. Outside the windows white clouds of snow flakes billowed and subsided and bits of hail tapped the panes.

My fingers were cold. Feeny took his time. He was probably reading his notes. "Marilyn with a y n. Ascotti—I'll spell it—A for adam, s for sam, c for cotton, o for oscar, double t for tom, I for izzy, Ascotti, was killed this morning by a Bushwick Avenue trolley.

"Got that?" "Yes, Harry."

"Marilyn was five years old. She left her home at 104 Gates Avenue with her older sister Veronica at eight-thirty to go to school." I typed the notes "Yep."

"The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ascotti, are janitors at the Gates Avenue address. They told police Sergeant Thomas Reilly, who is in charge of the case, that they have no money to bury Marilyn."

"You still there, Jim?" "Yep." "Police figure it was nobody's fault, purely an accident. Veronica was leading the kid sister by the hand across Bushwick Avenue. Well, you know how thick the snow is." "Yeah."

"Veronica didn't see the trolley coming, and the motorman—you want his name?" "Sure." "George C for Charles Lewis—spelled with an e w."

"Got it." "There isn't anything more to tell. The kids came out of the blinding snow and Veronica had Marilyn by the hand and the little one was trying to pull ahead of her sister—know what I mean?" "Yes." "Apparently the little one was half knocked away by the cowcatcher in front, but the forward wheels cut both her legs off at the thighs." "I see." "Lewis stopped the car before the rear trucks ran over the kid, but she was lying on her back in the snow asking for her mother."

"Her what?" "Mommy." She wasn't loud or crying, just saying over and over: "I want my mommy. I want my mommy." The motorman sat on the front step of the trolley and he started to sob. Little Veronica ran home screaming.

"Traffic piled up a little and some truck drivers came over. They formed a circle around the little kid, but they knew there was nothing they could do. One of the men said it was like Marilyn went blind or something because snow flakes were falling in her eyes and she wasn't blinking."

"Just calling for her mother." "Yeah. Another guy ran into a Bushwick Avenue tavern and called for an ambulance, but—you know—nothing was gonna save the kid. The funny part is Sergeant Reilly told me that there wasn't a great deal of blood where the legs came off."

"It seems funny with all those roughnecks standing around that no one thought of answering her. She kept calling—you know, like a whimper—and these big lugs just stood there looking down." "Did an ambulance respond?" "Sure, but the kid was dead by then. I don't think she lasted five minutes."

"Anything else?" "Nothing else. I've given you a lot for a one-paragraph story. The city desk said they only want her name and address and the fact that she was killed by a trolley." "Okay."

"Oh, one thing more, but the police have no name to go with it. While the little kid was calling for her mother, a big limousine pulled up in the snow and some stout woman got out. She pushed her way through the crowd and crouched down beside the little kid.

"She heard the 'I want my mommy,' the same as everybody else. She was wearing a heavy fur coat. She must have seen that the child was blind or something because she stood up, took the fur coat off, and bunched it up under the kid's head. Then she patted Marilyn on the cheek and said: 'Here's your mommy. Here's your mommy.'"

"But the kid died before the ambulance got there and the woman went away."

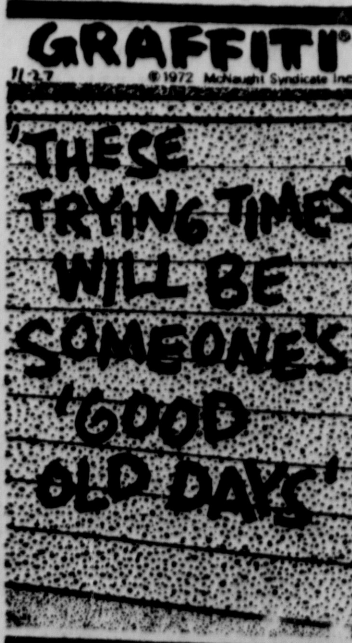

"Thanks," I said. I took the headset off and walked up to the city desk. "I can't write that story," I said. It was the first time I declined an assignment and the last.

George Clarke gave me a look. "Forget it," he said. It wasn't easy . . .

Questions Raised On Revenue Sharing

ALBANY, N.Y. — Local officials can't be blamed if they have many questions and are a little confused about the use of the federal revenue sharing funds they are to receive.

Many other officials at all levels of government also are trying to find answers, and the advice out of Washington sometimes has been conflicting.

For example: May the funds be used for debt service on borrowings prior to Jan. 1? One federal official said negative. The state comptroller's office checked with the U.S. Treasury Department and an official there answered in the affirmative.

"It's going to take awhile to get the bugs out," said John J. Feeney, deputy state comptroller. "It's a grand new program and three federal agencies are involved."

He drew an analogy to the period after the wage-price controls were announced last year. For several weeks, federal agencies were trying to translate the concept into nuts-and-bolts details and confusion was rampant.

Under the legislation, the state is to receive $197 million for the current calendar year, and localities $394.3 million. The first payment, about half of the total for the year, is to be distributed during the week of Dec. 4.

State Comptroller Arthur Levitt has scheduled a series of informational workshops across

Visitors Impressed With City Hall

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON — "It's beautiful, very nice, just lovely," were typical reactions on the new city hall from persons attending Sunday's formal dedication ceremonies.

John Burns of Clifton Avenue said the new building was a "100 per cent" improvement over the old one. "What can you say about a city hall?" Burns said. Marguerite Derringer of Washington Avenue said the building was "very nice, it looks very functional. I'm still not sold on the location." Mrs. Derringer said, "The police will have a long way to go to reach the uptown people."

Miss Margaret Howard of Elmendorf Street disagreed however. "It's a lovely building and downtown is the place for it," she said. Frank LaLima of Elmendorf Street and John Beverly of Sycamore Street, both thought the building was beautiful. The man who designed the $972,000 structure, Architect Albert E. Milliken, said it was

"everything I hoped it would be. I'm very happy with it." City Hall, the old one, is what brought Milliken to Kingston. The story, as told to The Freeman yesterday at the dedication, goes like this: Milliken, just out of college, was working in the Utica area. He passed through Kingston for the first time on his way to seek a job in New York in 1927. Coincidentally, it was the day after the old city hall was gutted by fire. "There wasn't much left of the interior," Milliken recalled. "That building had wooden floors, you know."

Milliken's efforts to find work in New York City were less than successful. "They told me the only thing they had was this city hall reconstruction job in Kingston."

"There were three architects working on it, Teller, Betz and Lowe, but neither seemed really interested in it," Milliken said, "so I got to do most of the work."

The work took more than two years and cost several hundred thousand dollars.

Does Milliken have mixed emotions at seeing the city hall abandoned only forty-three years after he completed its renovation? "Not really," he said yesterday. "This is a much more functional building. You had an awful lot of wasted space in that building; just the wall space alone. We've made very good use of space down here."

And how does Milliken, recently appointed a member of the Historic Landmarks Preservation Commission, feel about efforts to "save" the old city hall?

Structurally, the building is of very solid. We put poured concrete floors in it and the walls must be a foot thick. But, I think that some useful purpose should be made of it. I wouldn't want to see it standing there empty. After all, we can't have a city full of museums," he said.

Actor Eddie Albert Cites Area Christmas Seal Drive

KINGSTON — Actor Eddie Albert, honorary chairman of the 1972 Christmas Seal campaign, has sent a letter of commendation to Ulster County co-chairman Rose Marie Feeney commending her support of the Christmas Seal program and urging continued efforts in the fight against respiratory diseases and air pollution.

In his letter to Miss Feeney, Albert said:

"In just a few weeks, the Christmas Seal will be crisscrossing the country, carrying a message of hope and health to millions of Americans."

"This year, the annual journey of that all-important bit of paper is especially meaningful to me. I've traveled the same routes several times in the past few years, and one thing is increasingly obvious. Man is a desperate danger from smog, and throughout the Mid-Hudson area in general, adding, "We owe a great deal to the local township chairmen who do so much to place the TB-RD work of the association, via the Christmas Seal, before our people all through Ulster County. They deserve our unreserved gratitude."

Township chairmen for the Christmas Seal program include:

Mrs. C. C. DuMond, Ulster Park; Mrs. Clifford Hoppenstadt, Gardiner; Mrs. Claude S. Haynes, Arkville; Mrs. Charles G. Palen, Hurley; Mrs. Charles T. Guadagnola, Woodstock; Mrs. John J. Gaffney, Highland; Mrs. Ross K. Osterhout, Stone Ridge; Mr. Gus J. Cutrone, Marlboro; Mrs. Leonard and Tantillo, New Paltz; Mrs. Bernard Stahl, Olivebridge; Mrs. John Ronald A. Wager, Mohawk; Mrs. Delfin Bilbao, Poughkeepsie; Mr. Frank Hoots, Saugerties; Mr. Herbert DuBois, Poughkeepsie.

Bormann in Argentina

NEW YORK (AP) — Martin Bormann, Adolf Hitler's deputy, lives on a vast ranch in northern Argentina where he was traced by that South American country's central intelligence agency, the Daily Express of London reported today.

The copyrighted story, by spy expert Ladislav Farago in collaboration with former Express foreign editor Stewart Steven, was distributed by the Chicago Tribune-New York Daily News syndicate in the United States. Pictures of a heavy-set, balding man were published with the story in the Daily News. The newspaper said that Argentine intelligence agent Jose Velasco identified the man as Bormann, although he was traveling with a passport made out to Ricardo Bauer. The pictures were taken

Dr. George Clarke Dies, Was Local Sports Great

NEW PORT RICHEY, Fla. — Dr. George Herbert Clarke, 59, a retired dentist at the Rome State School, Rome, N.Y., died on Nov. 17 in the Community Hospital, New Port Richey, Florida after a brief illness.

A resident of Rome, he had been a dentist at the school for 30 years, retiring in 1971.

Dr. Clarke was one of Kingston High School's all-time athletic greats in the pre-World War II period under Coach G. Warren Kias. He was a standout in football, basketball and baseball and also participated in track.

A native of Kingston, Dr. Clarke was a son of the late Dr. George H. Clarke and Ella S. Clarke. He attended local schools and was graduated from graduating from Tufts University School of Dentistry in 1937, he practiced in Kingston for a short time before entering the State Department of Mental Hygiene.

He is survived by his wife, a daughter and two grandchildren and, locally, an aunt, Mrs. Jay W. Rifkenbary, a cousin, T.J. Rifkenbary. The late George C. Rifkenbary was a cousin.

Funeral services were held Nov. 21 and burial will be in Wiltwyck Cemetery, Kingston, at the convenience of the family.

If Pays to Advertise

when Velasco questioned the man at Checkpoint Mendoza near the Chilean border last Oct. 5, the newspaper said. It quoted Velasco as saying that he was sorry he had not arrested the man on his own initiative.

Farago and Steven said in their story that, in the last few weeks, Bormann had been traced to the Rancho Grande, a huge estate owned by Arndt von Bohlen-Halbach of the West German Krupp family, in the Province of Salta.

"We have at this moment incontrovertible evidence that Bormann himself is there," they quoted Velasco as saying. But they reported that Velasco had ruled out any attempt to capture the wanted war criminal at the ranch because he would "easily escape long before we could reach his present hideout."

The authors said Argentine Secret Service documents showed Bormann had lived in various South American countries under a number of names since 1948. Through investigation of smuggled Nazi wealth, they said, he had become "an important factor in the economic life of South America."

In Vienna today, Simon Wiesenthal, the head of the Jewish documentation center, said he was "very, very skeptical" the man described in the Daily Express article would turn out to be Bormann.

Ferncliff Home Set for Opening

RHINEBECK Mother M. Edmund Francis, administrator of the home, reported that she "has been most pleased with the overwhelming response and interest shown in Ferncliff Nursing Home."

Plans are being finalized to hold refresher courses for graduate nurses who have maintained their license but have been inactive for some time.

According to Mother Francis, nursing care for the aging presents a "uniquely challenging opportunity in which long term 'tender loving care' is of extreme importance in serving the psychological and spiritual needs of each resident."

Since July, and in anticipation of the home's opening, more than 400 persons from surrounding communities have applied for positions at the home, she said.

Applications are now in the process of being reviewed. Robert O'Brien, newly appointed personnel director, plans to conduct personal interviews in the immediate future.

Lefkowitz Hits Dutchess Firm For Pollution

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—State Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz today charged the Getty Oil Co. and a Getty service station in the Dutchess County hamlet of LaGrange with polluting the water supplies of some nearby residents.

The state's chief legal officer claimed in papers filed in State Supreme Court that gasoline from the station's pumps and storage tanks had leaked into the water supply of adjacent homeowners.

Further, said Lefkowitz, the seepage threatens to harm the water table of a large area.

The attorney general asked for an injunction and a court order requiring Getty and Julian F. Pittman, the dealer, to install purification equipment to restore the water supplies of the nearby homes. The suit also seeks $2,500 in penalties from each defendant.

Lefkowitz said that to his knowledge the case represented the first time a government agency had gone to court to deal with contamination of home owners' water supplies as a result of gasoline leakage.

Officials Bag Deer Hunters; 29 Citations

ALLABEN State Police and Conservation Department personnel manning a road check point on Route 28 at Allaben Sunday racked up 29 conservation arrests of deer hunters.

Conservation Officer Howard Wendler, who made the check with Officer Henry Bernstein and State Police from Hurley zone headquarters, said that 21 of the violations involved improper tagging or failure to tag deer properly. Another two arrests were for deer taken with less than three-inch antlers, and another six violations resulted from false statements by out-of-state hunters applying for New York state hunting licenses.

Bogus Bills At Area Bank

STONE RIDGE Two bogus ten dollar bills were discovered today at the Stone Ridge Branch of Kingston Trust Co., prompting bank officials to warn holiday shoppers to be on the lookout for phony money during the busy Christmas season.

The two bills, ostensibly issued by the Federal Reserve Bank in New York City, carried the serial numbers "B3877480-3A" and "B17385915B." Both were 1963 series bills.

Counterfeit ten dollar bills have surfaced intermittently in the Kingston area during the past two years. Officials expect that counterfeiters will attempt to pass more in the coming weeks because of the heavy exchange of money during the Christmas season shopping rush.

Perry Proved Coach Has Vantage Point

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

STONE RIDGE
The Senate Gym lights had been dimmed and all but a few of the basketball buffs had disappeared into the dark and dank night.

Coach Mike Candel of the Nassau Community College Lions, beaten but unbowed, among the last to leave, was making his way toward the exit. A small group of fans clustered in front of the doors.

"A tough loss, coach," said a voice from the crowd.

"What do you think of Ulster's team?"

Candel appeared not to have heard the remarks and kept moving. Suddenly he stopped, and faced the group.

"We made them play our game for 35 minutes and they forced us to play their game for five minutes," said the young, personable coach. "That's the story of the ball game."

That was a pretty fair summation of what had happened minutes before, when Coach Mike Perry's Senators, under the whip, broke a 52-52 tie and roared to a 23-4 romp in the last six minutes of play to win going away, 75-56, and wrap up their first Turkey Trot championship Saturday night.

But that wasn't the whole story and the final score will forever belie what really happened. One has to give Coach Perry credit for responding instinctively to the problems his defense was encountering when the game was still very much up for grabs.

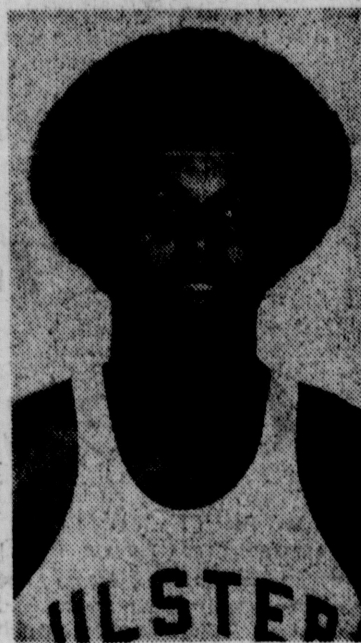

With 8:39 left to play, a driving layup by Jim Becks brought the Nassau Lions to within two points of Ulster, 50-48. Coach Perry called time. At the 7:12 mark, Brecks repeated with a jump and now it was 50-50. When Jerry Jackson, the most underrated player in the tournament put Nassau ahead 52-50 for the last time at 6:30, Perry bolted from the bench and called time again.

"I called time and I told them very simply . . . You think you can zone guys, go ahead," said the coach. "I suggest, gentlemen, that we go back to man-to-man." That might not be the precise language the coach used, but the sagging Senators got the message. They smothered the Nassau offenses the rest of the way.

When play resumed, Val Williams the No. 4 holdover from last season's 28-2 squad, tied the score 52-52 with 5:58 on the clock. After that it was all downhill for Nassau.

In quick succession, Coleman Link hit from the baseline and Henry Nixon popped a 25-foot jumper to put UCCC ahead 56-52 and force Nassau to call time with 4:28 left. The respite didn't help the Lions, who lost possession when a loose ball strayed over the restraining line. Center Clemons went under for a deuce and the irrepressible Jackie Knowles came up with a steal, was fouled and converted two free throws to widen the lead to 60-52. Incredibly, he picked off another steal and soloed the length of the court and it was 62-52 at the 3:32 mark. The Young Lions had tried but failed.

Coach Candel was proud of his mixture of freshmen and sophomores, who saw little action last season.

"I don't think anybody is going to beat the (UCCC) in a close game," he volunteered. "They got the points when they needed them. The team has balance, speed, shooting power and a strong bench. They can beat you in a lot of ways."

But Candel was already looking ahead to the future. "I was satisfied with our showing," he said. "We did a good job defensively until the last five minutes when they turned the game around."

It had to be one of Ulster's finest hours during Coach Perry's career and the UCCC mentor took it in graceful stride. "It was a great victory," he said. "We started with four players from last year and it helped."

Perry praised Nassau's showing. "Considering their personnel, they did a great job on us defensively. They had a lot of poise and impressed me as a well disciplined club."

Perry didn't say it, but Coach Candel said it for him. "Next time around, I think we'll be ready for Ulster."

Jackie Knowles won a close ballot from teammate Henry Nixon for the Most Valuable Player award. Joining Knowles (39) and Nixon (34) on the Turkey Trot all-star team and points were: Clemons, UCCC (26) and three players tied with 25 points—Link, UCCC, and Robert Kurzenhouse and Thomas Lacey of Nassau.

SIDE BARS: Coach Candel made no effort to conceal his bitter disappointment when the all-star selectors overlooked

Nassau's Jerry Jackson. Jackson scored 34 points in the two games. "He was terrific against Johnson-Wales Friday and great tonight," said Candel heatedly. "It's unbelievable they could overlook him."

They did . . . The Friday night openers were honored by a visit from the Three Wise Men of the Mid-Hudson Conference—the omnipresent Coach El Evans of Dutchess, Howie Pierson of Rockland and Ralph Arietta of Westchester, who also serves as Mid-Hudson Conference publicist . . . Pierson, who will have Larry Frazier and Wade Pittman (ex-NFA) back this season, was non-committal, but is reported to have said, "We can take them," meaning UCCC . . . Arietta was fulsome in his praise of the Senators. "Who's going to beat them . . . the Knicks?" he quipped. Evans said flatly, "Ulster has a better team than last year." Coach Candel, a neutral observer, wasn't taken in by the games the coaches were playing. "This could be the roughest conference race in years," he said. "Ulster, Westchester, Rockland and Dutchess are all in it and Sullivan will be no pushover."

Past Catching Up With Rodgers

NEW YORK (UPI)—This year's Heisman trophy winner, the best college football player in the country in the judgement of some 1,200 sports writers and broadcasters, will be announced by New York's Downtown Athletic Club Dec. 5.

For Johnny Rodgers, Nebraska's magnificent offensive do-everything dynamo, it will be, if he wins, the symbol of a long and difficult struggle for recognition come to an end.

All his life, it seems, Johnny Rodgers has been dodging obstacles—on and off the gridiron. On the football field, he says, it is all so easy. He runs with abandon, strength and confidence.

"I feel that I can do anything I want to do on a football field," the 5-foot-9, 173 pound wingback said in a telephone interview with UPI. "That is where I am at my best."

But off the field the 21-year-old has found the going a bit rougher. Up from poverty, fatherless most of his life and in but not yet out of hassles with the police for the last three years, Rodgers wants the symbol to prove to himself that he has truly overcome adversity.

"It would mean a lot to me to win the Heisman trophy because I came from nothing to be something," said the man who has gained about three and a half miles in total yards in three seasons.

"I started off with one handicap because I was too small. I started off with another handicap because we were very poor. I started off with even a bigger handicap because I was black."

"And then I got to college and got a setback and came off that and I'm still back up in a position where some people come on. They start off from being rich and they start off from being white, and they start off with good educations and they still haven't done the things that I've done."

The setback in college to which Rodgers referred began four years ago as a last-day-of-school prank and ended up as a $90 robbery to which he and two others pleaded guilty and for which he was placed on two-years probation and had his driving license suspended.

Whether it should or not, it may be the reason Rodgers could be denied the Heisman trophy.

Two prominent sports writers in New York already have declared their opposition to Rodgers for the award, one of them citing Rodgers' supposed "knack of being in the wrong place at the wrong time committing wrong acts."

While it is true that Rodgers did have two other brushes with the law since his first encounter, one was for running a stop sign while driving with the suspended license and the other was sheer nonsense.

Of the latter, Rodgers says: "I suppose the thing that really hurt me the most is when they stopped me on the interstate when I was going home with a friend of mine and they tried to pin a marijuana charge on me. I mean I had done a lot of things that I had been guilty of and I was ready to go on and face them because those were mistakes that I just had to deal with from here out."

"But they just get me out somewhere and accuse me of something and give me bad publicity for no reason whatever. The police pulled me out of the car and said, 'Johnny get out of the car. We're busting you for possession of marijuana.' He didn't ask me for any ID, he didn't ask me for nothing. That's all he said."

No marijuana was found and no charges were pressed. Yet Rodgers' reputation as a wild kid grew.

Rodgers, who lived in Omaha with his sister and brother in a two-room house while his mother barely made ends meet on a check from Aid for Dependent Children, learned early to cope with bad times. Philosophically, he sees the possible denial of the Heisman trophy as just one more bad thing.

"I feel that I've had a lot of injustices in my life and this might be just one more. I'm really not going to get upset by this," he says almost convincingly.

"Statistics-wise I feel that I'm probably the best football player in the country. I do a lot more things than a lot of other people. Oklahoma's Greg Pruitt runs the football from the backfield. I run the football from the backfield. I catch the football. I run back punt returns. I run back kickoff returns. I do a heck of a lot more things than Greg Pruitt does and he's supposedly my biggest contender."

"I feel that if they wanted a character award to go with the Heisman trophy they probably should work out some type of agreement or some type of way to sit down and talk to each individual who is the highest candidate for it so they can judge themselves, can see just what kind of person this is. Because I don't really think that I'm that bad a person."

Wendell Smith Dies

CHICAGO (UPI) — Wendell Smith, television sportscaster and former newspaperman who was largely responsible for Jackie Robinson being signed as the first black major league baseball player, died Sunday. He was 58.

Since 1964, Smith had been a sportscaster for WGN television in Chicago. He also worked for the old Chicago's American and WBBM-TV here and was a sportswriter for the Pittsburgh Courier.

It was while with the courier that he lobbied for bringing Robinson's up to break the color barrier in major league baseball. Robinson, who died last month, once said he would not have made the major leagues without Smith's efforts.

Smith himself was one of the first black members of the Baseball Writers Association. He also led the campaign for equal treatment of black baseball players in housing and meals during spring training and road games.

In 1969 Smith was named Best Sportscaster of the Year and he won the top sportswriting award presented by the Hearst organization in 1958. He was current president of the Chicago Press Club.

Smith, who was also a news reporter on WGN's "People to People" program, had been hospitalized periodically during the last six months. He died of cancer at St. Joseph Hospital. Survivors include his widow, Wyonella. In lieu of flowers, Mrs. Smith requested that donations be made to the Women's Division of the United Negro College Fund, 127 N. Dearborn, Chicago.

Visitation was scheduled for 7 to 8 p.m. Tuesday at Griffin funeral home, Chicago, with funeral services there at 2 p.m. Wednesday. Burial will be at Burr Oak Cemetery.

Hansen Captures Sports Car Title

GAINESVILLE, Ga. (UPI) — Stockbroker Jerry Hansen drove a Corvette to victory in Sunday's finale of the 1972 American Road Race of Champions, his third win in two days and his eighth career Sports Car Club of America championship.

The 34-year-old Hansen, from Bloomington, Minn., won the A sports racing and Formula A races Saturday in a cold, driving rain, giving him three of the four class A championships for big-bore machinery.

His 28.4 second victory Sunday in the A production race was his eighth championship in six years. Both that and the three championships during the course of one three-day ARRC are records for SCCA drivers.

Hansen won two championships last year, in A sports racing and Formula A, but failed in his try for the A production event.

Nick Engles of Bethel Park, Pa., and Bill Morrison of Chicago, both upended their Corvettes on the straight at the 2.5-mile Road Atlanta course during the A production event, scattering parts across the track and slowing drivers behind them. Both drivers were reported in satisfactory condition in an Atlanta hospital.

Two-time ARRC winner Bob Sharp of Wilton Conn., added two more trophies to his collection Sunday with victories in C production and B sedan. Other winners in Sunday's competition were Bob Wheelock in Super V, Warren Agor in A sedan, Allan Barker in B production, his fourth straight championship in that class, and Bob McQueen in D production.

Sharp, in a Datsun 510, was tailed in the B sedan race by second-place finisher Walt Maas of Mountain View, Calif., also in a Datsun, through 13 laps before pulling away to a 10.4 second win. Jim Fitzgerald of Clemons, N.C., gunned his way from 14th place after spinning on the first lap to take third in another Datsun.

Sharp led Bob Tullius of Falls Church, Va., in convoy throughout the C production race in a classic Datsun 240Z-Triumph TR6 battle. Sharp brought his Datsun home 3.6 seconds ahead of Tullius.

Barker, of Jeffersonville, Ind., easily won his fourth straight B production title with a Corvette, 46.4 seconds over Don Roberts of Phoenix, Ariz., in a Cobra.

Scrambling bumper-to-bumper for the whole race, McQueen, of Smyrna, Ga., beat Bryan Fursteneau of Falls Church, Va., by 2 of a second in the D production race, the same way the two finished last year.

At Liberty: So-So Outlook

LIBERTY
Until an ineligible player and a dozen forfeits spoiled Liberty High School's season last year, the Indians were one of the best basketball teams in the state, and certainly the best in the UCAL.

From that powerhouse one starter is back, a situation that prompts coach Floyd Emery to remark: "We should do well, but we've got a whole lot of proving to do."

Ivan Richards is the only truly known quantity in the Indians' attack. A rugged 6-2 and 195, how far he can lead last year's reserves remains to be seen.

Six other seniors, all back from last year, are on the squad, but none accumulated much playing time behind the likes of Joe Green, Errol Smalls and Joe Lewis. The biggest is Glen Osterhout, 6-2 and 210. Then there's Tom Van Slyke, 6-1, Steve Foster, 5-11 Tom Ellison 5-11, Jay Diamond 5-6, and Juan Chandler, 5-9.

Mario Berry is a six-footer and a likely starter. He's a junior along with Keith Jackson 6-1, Radford Young, 6-0, and Harry Kaiser, 5-4. Another possible this year is a freshman named Andrea Bridges a 5-9 operator Emery rates high on potential.

Liberty opens the season at home against Red Hook, a confrontation Emery is wary of: "Red Hook and Ellenville should be the tough teams this year. The first game should tell us a lot, but I'd

Its Brickbat Season For Bowl Game Selectors

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

There are some unhappy bowl teams around the country today... like Louisiana State, Missouri, Iowa State and Texas Tech. But there are some unhappy nonbowl teams... like Oklahoma State and Southern Methodist.

The unranked Oklahoma State Cowboys, 6-4, had some unkind words for the various bowl selection committees Saturday following their 45-14 trouncing of favored Iowa State, rated 17th and bound for the Liberty Bowl.

"We're disappointed that we're not in a bowl game because we've beaten three bowl teams (Colorado, Missouri, Iowa State)," said quarterback Brent Blackman, who scored once, ran for a two-point conversion and threw two long passes that set up touchdowns.

"Our goal is to beat a fourth when we play Oklahoma next week."

Unranked and uninvited SMU also has a 6-4 mark after beating Baylor 12-7 and Coach Hayden Fry points out that if the Mustangs beat Texas Christian in their wind-up, "Our record will be better than some teams playing in bowl games. I'm going to recommend that the NCAA move back the date on which bowl selections can be made... at least until late November."

Actually, bowl invitations can be extended on the third Saturday in November or one week before the end of a team's regular season—whichever comes first.

Fry apparently was referring specifically to 16th-ranked Missouri, 6-5, and Iowa State, 5-4-1. Kansas upset Fiesta Bowl-bound Missouri 28-17 in what Coach Don Fambrough called "the Mud Bowl" behind David Jaynes' 259-yard passing.

Meanwhile, the last two major bowl berths were decided. No. 9 Ohio State pulled off two brilliant goal-line stands and held off previously unbeaten and third-ranked Michigan 14-11 to share the Big Ten crown and earn a trip to the Rose Bowl against top-ranked Southern California.

Arizona State, ranked 18th, reeled off 362 yards on the ground, 153 by Brent McClanahan, to turn back Arizona 38-21 for its fourth straight Western Athletic Conference championship. The Sun Devils will host Missouri in the Fiesta Bowl. Arizona Coach Bob Weber submitted his resignation on Sunday.

With the regular season drawing to a close, seven members of The Associated Press Top Twenty were not scheduled Saturday. Southern Cal and Alabama, the 1-2 teams, finish this weekend—the Trojans against No. 11 Notre Dame and "Bama" against No. 10 Auburn. Colorado, UCLA and Washington State, rated 13th, 14th and 19th, wound up last week.

LSU, ranked eighth and headed for the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl, was held to a 3-3 tie when Florida freshman John Williams kicked a 35-yard field goal with 2:08 left. The Tigers, on the other hand, missed seven of eight field goal attempts while star quarterback Bert Jones was held to 82 yards passing and sacked seven times.

"I agree that most ties are like kissing your sister," said Ken Hatfield, a Florida assistant coach. "But this tie was more like kissing your neighbor's sister."

Texas Tech, 20th in the rankings and scheduled for a Sun Bowl date with North Carolina, lost to Arkansas 24-14 when the Razorbacks cashed in on fumbles and a pass interference call for touchdowns.

Elsewhere, sixth-ranked Penn State handed Pitt a school record 10th defeat 49-27 as John Hufnagel threw three scoring passes; No. 12 Tennessee used the running of Haskel Stanback and Condredge Holloway's passing to turn back stubborn Kentucky 17-7. No. 15 North Carolina routed East Carolina 42-19 as Ike Oglesby scored three times.

Dartmouth won the Ivy League title with a 31-17 come-from-behind victory over Penn; Louisville blanked Drake 27-0 to share Missouri Valley honors with the Bulldogs; Michigan State made Coach Duffy Daugherty's last game a joyous one by beating Northwestern 24-14 and Purdue's Otis Armstrong became the Big Ten's all-time leading ground-gainer with 276 yards—for a career total of 3,316—and three touchdowns as the Boilermakers whipped Indiana 42-7.

The only casualty in the Michigan-Ohio State war besides the unbeaten Wolverines' 10-game winning streak was Buckeye Coach Woody Hayes, who pulled a calf muscle trying to keep fans from tearing down the goalposts in the closing seconds.

"I'll be in shape for the Rose Bowl," he promised.

Suns Lost Contest And Ace Hawkins

By United Press International

The Phoenix Suns not only lost a game Sunday night—they lost their best player.

Connie Hawkins, the Suns' star forward, stormed off the court early in the second period after a heated exchange with General Manager Coach Jerry Colangelo, showered and left in a cab. The Suns then bowed to the Los Angeles Lakers, 112-107.

Hawkins played about five minutes and did not score before the incident. A source close to the Suns said there had been trouble between the 6-foot-8 star and Colangelo for the past two weeks.

Stemkowski Drops Helmet And Nets Pair of Goals

NEW YORK (AP) — It's hats off for Pete Stemkowski, and the result has Ranger fans doffing their caps.

Stemkowski, New York's bruising forward who had been wearing a protective helmet since suffering a serious head injury early last year, decided recently it was time to start playing without the extra headgear.

Stemkowski, playing without the helmet, netted a pair of goals as the Rangers outscored the Toronto Maple Leafs 7-4 at Madison Square Garden and he attributed his improved play in recent games, at least partially, to the decision to bare his pate.

Revenge For White

By United Press International

Revenge still is one of the strongest motivations in sport.

Alton White, the first black player in the World Hockey Association, proved this again Sunday afternoon when he returned to New York with his new team and fired home the winning goal as the Los Angeles Sharks beat the Raiders, 6-2.

White had asked to be traded from New York last week because of his dissatisfaction at sitting on the bench.

The college basketball season has opened in predictable fashion with top-ranked UCLA flexing its muscles.

The powerful Bruins, gunning for their seventh straight NCAA basketball championship, opened their campaign Saturday night with a crushing 94-53 rout of Wisconsin to run their winning streak over a three-year period to 46.

Bill Walton, last season's Player of the Year, paced the Bruins' attack with 26 points and 20 rebounds while playing only three-quarters of the game. Keith Wilkes, another returnee from last season's championship team, chipped in with 19 points and Larry Farmer, the only senior on the starting team, had 14.

UCLA Flexes Old Muscles

By United Press International

The college basketball season has opened in predictable fashion with top-ranked UCLA flexing its muscles.

The powerful Bruins, gunning for their seventh straight NCAA basketball championship, opened their campaign Saturday night with a crushing 94-53 rout of Wisconsin to run their winning streak over a three-year period to 46.

Bill Walton, last season's Player of the Year, paced the Bruins' attack with 26 points and 20 rebounds while playing only three-quarters of the game. Keith Wilkes, another returnee from last season's championship team, chipped in with 19 points and Larry Farmer, the only senior on the starting team, had 14.

The Bruins, who lost only All-America guard Henry Bibby from last year's starting five, turned a 14-12 lead into a 41-19 bulge in less than eight minutes and coasted to a 51-23 halftime lead.

The game marked the opening of Coach John Wooden's 25th season at UCLA. His teams have won eight of the last nine NCAA championships and this year the Bruins are gunning for the NCAA record of 60 straight victories set by the University of San Francisco from 1955-57.

Most teams don't begin their campaigns until next weekend, but three other members of the preseason top 20 saw action Saturday night. Minnesota, ranked No. 4, opened with a 93-71 victory over UC Irvine, 12th-ranked North Carolina defeated Biscayne, 107-62, and 17th-ranked Southern California toppled Loyola of California, 83-69.

Four more members of the top 20 are scheduled to play tonight. Ohio State, ranked No. 6, hosts UW Milwaukee, 11th-ranked Houston entertains Southern Mississippi, 15th-ranked Kansas State hosts San Diego State and 20th-ranked Texas at El Paso is home against New Mexico State.

Minnesota, expected to battle Ohio State for the Big Ten title, got 26 points from Ron Behagen and 20 from Olympic star Jim Brewer in downing UC Irvine. The Gophers raced to a 20-6 lead in the first eight minutes and were ahead 49-23 at the half.

North Carolina, with only two starters returning from the squad that finished third in the NCAA last season, unveiled a talented sophomore named Donald Washington, who poured in 26 points to lead the rout of Biscayne. George Karl, one of the returnees from last season's team, added 24 points.

State Office Seeking Ready Reservists

KINGSTON The New York State Office of Natural Disaster and Civil Defense is looking for army and air force Ready Reservists in this area to serve as Civil Defense Mobilization Designees, according to Charles Arnold, Ulster County Civil Defense director.

This announcement was made today by Commissioner Raymond T. Schuler, when he made known that the agency is participating in the new, nationwide CD MOBDES program.

The Army Reserve has authorized 600 CD MOBDES spaces, and the Air Force Reserve 2,932 spaces, for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1972. All these spaces have been allocated to local, state and regional civil defense organizations across the country. The Navy, Marine Corps, the Coast Guard are also considering participation in the CD MOBDES program.

The New York Office of Natural Disaster and Civil Defense has requested and been given 124 spaces to fill this fiscal year. According to Commissioner Schuler, the types of Ready Reservists especially needed are those with military job skills (Army MOS's or Air Force AFSC's) in classifications such as Operations, Logistics, Damage Control, Radiological Defense, and others.

"I will be glad to talk with any members of the army or Air Force Individual Ready Reserve, male or female, officer or enlisted, who feel they have the job skills we need, and are interested in serving in CD MOBDES posts," said Arnold, Director of the Natural Disaster and Civil Defense Office in Kingston.

"They may phone me at any time and I will arrange an appointment with the New York State Office of Natural Disaster to discuss all aspects of the program. Those who are accepted will make a significant contribution to the protection of New York State and its communities' residents from both wartime and peacetime disasters."

Basic purpose of the CD-MOBDES program is to strengthen the capabilities of civil governments—local, State, and Federal—to cope with major peacetime and wartime disasters. By training attached MOBDES personnel to serve as CD specialists and assistants to the regular staff members of civil defense agencies, agency operations should be improved in both pre-emergency and actual emergency periods.

Benefits for the CD-MOBDES personnel include the opportunity of earning the full required point credit for a satisfactory retirement year; training and duty stations within daily commuting distance of their homes; at least 24 two-hour, on-the-job training or work sessions per year, for points only; the opportunity to take correspondence courses during the year from the DCPA Staff College at Battle Creek, Michigan; an annual 12 day training period with pay, spent either on-the-job at their duty stations or as resident students at the DCPA Staff College, with travel and subsistence paid; and active duty in a wartime mobilization period in the specific jobs for which they have been trained. In a peacetime disaster period, a MOBDES appointee could be asked by his CD director to volunteer for active duty in his civil defense job, and he would be paid for such duty.

To be appointed a Civil Defense Mobilization designee, a member of the Ready Reserve, from the enlisted grade of E-6 through colonel, should have at least two years remaining before his mandatory separation from the Ready Reserve and should live within commuting distance of the CD agency where he desires to serve.

His application for a CD MOBDES post should be submitted to that agency, which will screen and forward it through CD channels to the appropriate military department. An applicant considered suitable for civil defense work and who has the desired military job skills will be assigned to the appropriate DCPA Regional Office and will serve at the CD agency which requested his services. Specific on-the-job training will be conducted at the duty station.

Kingston Chapter of B'nai B'rith To Hear Talk on Heart Disease

Dr. George Wootan, a well-known Kingston physician who has worked with smoking withdrawal programs in the area for several years, will address Zephaniah Chapter No. 399 of B'nai B'rith on Wednesday at 8 p.m. at Temple Emanuel, Albany Avenue. His topic will be "Risk Factors in Heart Disease." A Heart Association film, "Better Odds for a Longer Life," will be shown also.

Dr. Wootan is a member of the Speaker's Bureau of the Mid-Hudson Heart Association and volunteers many hours each year for public education. Providing such public education programs is a free service of the Heart Association.

Mrs. David Weinstein, president of the Kingston Chapter of B'nai B'rith, stresses the point that "Heart disease is no respecter of race, creed, or affluence." As president of the Kingston service group, she invites the public to attend, especially all B'nai B'rith men.

The largest and oldest Jewish service (men and women) organization in the world, B'nai B'rith was founded in 1843. It is 37 years older than the Red Cross, 38 years older than the Salvation Army, and is represented in 43 countries as well as in the United Nations.

The B'nai B'rith Women of the world number approximately 160,000 with chapters in 26 countries of the globe.

The local Chapter of B'nai B'rith Women, designated as the Zephaniah Chapter No. 399, was founded 27 years ago. The membership roster of the organization includes over 250 members. The local group engages in educational, philanthropic, civic and religious programs of community, national and international scope.

One of the more active

B'nai B'rith agencies on both the local and national scene is the Anti-Defamation League (ADL) which is dedicated to building a better democracy by working for equality of opportunity for all groups and which hopes to better intergroup dynamics. In addition to its support of its national agency, the local Chapter had engaged upon its own drive to better inter-group relationships through its successful program called

"Dolls for Democracy", a presentation performed by B'nai B'rith Women for all schools in the local area and various youth groups such as the Girl Scouts. The dolls, Abraham Lincoln, Marian Anderson, Eleanor Roosevelt, Dr. Jonas Salk, Florence Nightingale and John F. Kennedy, vividly show the contributions of these Americans to this great society.

The Citizens, Veterans and Community Affairs program, yet another arm of the organization, accomplishes such services as providing cheer, gifts and birthday cakes to veterans at Castle Point Hospital, to patients at the Ulster County Infirmary; providing transportation for patients at the Tumor, T.B., and Children's Rehabilitation Clinic, as well as cooperating with the Red Cross and Cerebral Palsy Telethon and various other community service groups.

Members serve Wassaic State School, providing men, women and children of all ages who are mentally retarded and brain-injured, with various necessities. With the aid of the Association of the Retarded Children in Kingston, the Chapter is trying to encourage a Senior Citizen Foster Grandparent Program to provide tenderness, love and care to children who see no one except nurses. The Chapter provides transportation and the school will provide a free physical examination, a free meal, and pay $1.60 an hour for a five day work week.

A concern for youth, the future leaders of tomorrow, involves B'nai B'rith Women in sponsoring B'nai B'rith Girls, an organization for Jewish teenage girls. The Kingston Chapter was also instrumental in the foundation of a Hill Chapter at the State University at New Paltz. The Vocational Service group assists with a story hour at the Kingston Children's Library.

Each Chapter, including the Kingston Zephaniah Chapter, does engage in fund-raising activity. The monies derived from such projects as the B'nai B'rith Calendar and Directory, help support such important institutions as the Hill Foundations in 260 colleges and the B'nai B'rith Four Freedoms Library in Washington, D.C. Other B'nai B'rith Women philanthropies supported by the Kingston Chapter include the B'nai B'rith Women's Children's Home in Israel, the National Jewish Hospital in Denver, Colorado, the B'nai B'rith Center at the Mayo Clinic, the Bellefaire Home for the emotionally disturbed children in Cleveland, Ohio, and the Leo N. Levi Hospital in Hot Springs, Arkansas, which is a free non-sectarian institution devoted exclusively to the treatment of arthritis and rheumatoid diseases.

ARRANGEMENTS of Christmas flowers will be sold at the upcoming Marbletown Reformed Church of Stone Ridge bazaar slated for Saturday, Dec. 2 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Miss Edythe Newkirk, second from left, will be chairman of the floral booth. With her are (l-r) Mrs. Frank Brooks, chairman of the quality table; Mrs. William Roosa, co-chairman of the fair; and Mrs. Ronald Mapstone, miscellaneous items chairman. Public is invited to attend. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Abby, Your Inspiration Is Aid to Volunteers

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

© 1972 by Chicago Tribune, N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I just heard you speak to a packed ballroom in St. Petersburg, Fla., for Goodwill and I want to thank you for saying, "I've been doing volunteer work all my life!"

Oh, Abby, how I pray that because YOU do it, others will be inspired to do it, too.

If everyone, young, old, rich, poor, educated or not, would give one day a month (or even an hour), it would make such a happy difference in their lives as givers and would also enrich the programs of civic, religious and "helping" organizations tremendously.

Florida is well known for its retirement advantages—yet all over St. Petersburg men and women are sitting alone in self-pity because they are just plain bored. (As they say, "waiting to die.") That's pathetic, considering how much easier they could make life for someone who is "waiting to live."

And since when is "age" an excuse for not giving time or talent? Many star volunteers are in their 60s and 70s.

Today, so many of our young people are talking "LOVE." Well, kids, how about putting the "bod" where the mouth is? Nursing homes, hospitals, mental institutions, rehabilitation centers, etc., could use volunteers.

Dear Abby

Abby, you mentioned that Goodwill needs volunteers to write letters for the handicapped, take them shopping, to doctors, or therapy, and even to an occasional movie or for a drive. Volunteers can answer the telephone, type, file, address envelopes, or teach simple English pronunciation to those with speech defects. The list is overwhelming.

I could go on and on. I only wanted to thank you from the bottom of my heart for encouraging people to do for others.

Petersburg. Thank you for writing.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is not knowing how to introduce my boy friend. He is a doctor.

Do I say, "Mrs. Brown, I would like you to meet Dr. Smith"? Or do I just omit the "doctor" and introduce him as "Mster"?

I always feel so foolish introducing him as "Doctor." It sounds like I'm bragging.

UNSURE

DEAR UNSURE: He has earned the title, and should be introduced as "Dr."—not "Mister." But if you are self-conscious about it, simply introduce him as "John Smith." They'll soon find out he's a doctor.

Distaff Digest

Officers Named

Nomination and election of officers took place at the November meeting of Ulster County Women's Republican Club. Unanimously elected were Mrs. Brendon Alexander, president; Mrs. Emma Aprea, first vice president;

Mrs. Gerald F. Brandt, second vice president; Mrs. Rita Senor, third vice president; Mrs. James Rapp, fourth vice president; Mrs. Barbara Rogers, recording secretary; Mrs. Michael Perry, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Marguerite Derringer, treasurer.

Calling All Home Makers

Brought to You by ALLAN OREN CASUAL ELEGANCE?

At one time, home makers with small children or pets who wanted practical furniture had to settle for furnishings that weren't always the last word in beauty; and by the same token, furniture that was beautiful was often fragile and not practical for a growing family because you always had to be careful, and worry about it.

But, today there is in the home furnishings field a concept of "casual elegance" and strange as it seems, those two words are not contradictory to each other. Elegant things CAN be casual today and casual things CAN be elegant.

Just one reason for this change are soil-resistant fabrics that have been developed over the years. Now if something spills on a beautiful piece, you don't have the worry you once had.

But that's not all. Manufacturers have been able to produce elegant furniture without the fragile construction of other years, and at the same time, they've been able to truthfully say that built-in ruggedness in a piece does not prevent it from being beautiful and graceful.

Thus, today you can enjoy the best of both worlds as never before. You don't have to settle for fragile furniture if you want beauty, and you don't have to sacrifice beauty if you want sturdy, easy-to-care-for furniture.

To see a good selection of beautiful furniture, come and see us.

THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS

...it tells you how

Although the fireplace is making a big comeback these days, much of the old-time lore associated with an open blaze has been forgotten. If you'll be living with a wood-burning stove or fireplace this winter, for example, you should know the relative heating values of the various woods you're apt to buy or cut for fuel. Shellbark hickory is about the best firewood of all and other varieties compare to it as follows:

Shellbark Hickory . . . 100	Red Oak . . . . . 69	Red Cedar . . . . . 56
Pignut Hickory . . . . 95	White Birch . . . . . 65	Wild Cherry . . . . . 55
White Oak . . . . . 84	Black Walnut . . . . . 65	Yellow Pine . . . . . 54
White Ash . . . . . 77	Black Birch . . . . . 62	Yellow Poplar . . . . . 51
Dogwood . . . . . 75	Yellow Oak . . . . . 60	Butternut . . . . . 43
Scrub-Oak . . . . . 73	White Elm . . . . . 58	White Birch . . . . . 43
Apple Tree . . . . . 70	Hard Maple . . . . . 56	White Pine . . . . . 30

To keep insects (that sometimes hide under bark) out of the house, all firewood should be stored outside at least 20 feet from your home and brought in only as needed. Two easy methods of anchoring cordwood into a neat stack are shown below.

For an illustrated explanation of how to use an axe, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS in care of this newspaper. Ask for Reprint No. 4, BASIC AXEMANSHIP.

La Leche League To Meet

"The Baby Arrives: The Family and the Breastfed Baby" will be the topic for discussion when Kingston La Leche League meets Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Gordon Ustick, 43 Washington Avenue, Kingston.

The birth of a new baby, whether it is the first or the tenth child, has a far-reaching effect on the whole family. Each member of the family reacts differently, depending on age and temperament. Mrs. Pan Ustick La Leche Leader will lead the discussion and offer tips on making the transition from smaller family to larger family as easy as possible.

This is the third in La Leche League's continuing series of four informal discussion groups held at the home of one of the members. Any woman interested in breastfeeding is invited to attend, as are nursing babies. Kingston La Leche League has an extensive library of books and pamphlets on breastfeeding, childbirth, childcare, and nutrition. Mrs. Ustick and Ruth Scogna, the other La Leche League leader, are available for telephone counselling between meetings. For more information call Mrs. Pan Ustick.

ULSTER GARDEN CLUB — New officers were introduced at the annual meeting of Ulster Garden Club at the home of Mrs. Herbert Shultz. ## Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post:

Recently my husband's parents celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with a large dinner and reception.

They have five married children and fifteen grandchildren. One of their sons, married for the second time a little over a year ago, and his wife has nine children of her own and two grandchildren.

When we sent the writeup to the local newspaper, we wrote only that the anniversary couple had five children and fifteen grandchildren. The sister-in-law made an issue of the fact that we did not include her children as grandchildren, and the two as great grandchildren in the writeup. And, because her children were not "accepted as family," she refused to come to the celebration, and almost spoiled the day for my in-laws. Later, my mother-in-law thought that perhaps we should have included them as step-grandchildren and step great-grandchildren. We do not know if there is such a title, but to try to explain great grandchildren when none of the real grandchildren are married, we felt was awkward.

Would you please comment on what is correct in a situation such as this?

Mrs. M.C.

Dear Mrs. C.:

You were quite right in not saying that your husband's parents had twenty-four grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. However, stepchildren and grandchildren are very much a part of the family—or should be. The term "step" is sometimes considered objectionable, but this is wrong—it is a perfectly honorable and clear method of describing a relationship.

You should have included these new members of the family in the announcement by saying "they have nine step-grandchildren and two step-great-grandchildren, sons and daughters of Mrs. John Jones, Jr."

Your sister-in-law made too much of the omission. In staying away from the party, and casting a shadow over what should be such a happy celebration, she did little to insure that she and her family would surely be included the next time.

To make your wedding day the happy, memorable occasion you want it to be, my booklet "Your Guide to Formal Wedding Procedure" is just what you need. To get a copy, send thirty-five cents in coins to cover booklet and mailing expenses, to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this newspaper.

The last meeting took place at the Bishop Studio with Paula Kay Wood in charge. Her subject was "Form."

Each pupil performed, after which ornamentation games prepared by Miss Wood, were played. The winner was Alice Albany.

Refreshments were served during the social hour. Next month's work will include holiday music.

Hints from Heloise

DON'T KICK OVER THE TRACES!

Dear Heloise:

The other night my husband wanted to do some drafting work for a paper he was writing.

Since we don't have a tracing table or light table at home, my husband got a piece of clear plexiglass and I was about to stack books under each end of it and lay a bare lightbulb underneath. Suddenly I realized we really did have a tracing table in disguise.

With the piece of plexiglass laid over the hole in my sewing machine cabinet (when the cabinet is opened, but the machine part is left down inside with its light on), I had exactly what I needed.

There are many times when this tracing table may come in handy.

Children often need to trace maps, patterns, pictures, etc. for school projects, and this is so easy to set up.

If you don't have a flat piece of clear plastic or glass, try an inverted rectangular glass baking dish.

Mary West

Dear Heloise:

I'm sure that many of your readers save scraps of material and, when they have enough, cut them in one-inch wide strips, sew together and wind into balls to be used to crochet rugs.

These make colorful rugs for your entrance hall. But I've found that the best rugs are made from old cut up blue jeans...wonder if your readers ever thought of using them in this way?

A Reader

Dear Heloise:

I figured a way to sleep three children in the space of one:

Bunks for the big kids with the 2-year-old's crib mattress and springs on appliance rollers under the bunks works just great at our house.

You just pull out the "crib" at night and push it back under in the morning.

Our little one loves her new bed and we don't have to worry about her falling out of it.

I suppose it could be done with larger mattress and springs for the older children at less cost than the trundle beds would be.

Kiane Rohde

Dear Heloise:

Won't someone please invent a pair of remote control shoes for my 2-year-old?

You know: forward, backward, left, right—stop!

Just Tired

What do doctors recommend for patients in pain?

Doctors all over the country dispense over 50,000,000 of these tablets to their patients each year.

There are many medications a physician or dentist can prescribe for pain. Some are narcotic, many are available only on prescription. But there is one pain reliever, available without prescription, doctors dispense again and again...Anacin.

Each year, doctors give over 50,000,000 Anacin tablets to their patients in pain. If doctors think enough about Anacin to dispense all these tablets, what better recommendation can you ask when you are in pain?

You see, Anacin contains more of the pain reliever doctors recommend most than any other leading tablet.

Headache and dental pain is relieved incredibly fast; minor pains of arthritis are dependably eased for hours; even the aches and pains of colds and flu respond to Anacin. So the tension and depression that can be caused by such pain will be relieved too. And millions take Anacin without stomach upset.

When you're in pain, why don't you follow the practice of so many doctors and take the tablet a doctor might give you in his own office. Take Anacin®.

'Dutch-Style' Christmas

POUGHKEEPSIE In the restored kitchen, Mrs. Wilma Neyer will demonstrate colonial candle moulding using her collection of 18th century tin moulds. Dutch Christmas cookies and decorated gingerbread men will be on sale in the kitchen, as well.

The Southeast Room will feature hot spiced cider and Christmas cake. An international display of dolls, a Victorian Christmas Tree and seasonal decorations will be displayed throughout the historic home.

There will be no admission charge for Sunday's open house, and all interested persons are invited to attend.

Glebe House was built in 1767 as a home for an Episcopal rector, Rev. John Beardsley. During the Revolutionary War, the house was abandoned to the Quartermaster Officers of the Continental Army. A succession of families occupied the home until 1929, when a group of concerned citizens took steps to make it an historic landmark.

Sunday's open house will run from 3-5 p.m. and will include a spinning demonstration by Miss Mabel Lawson in the Southwest Room. The home's "18th Century Shop" will feature gift items made by Junior League members, including gingham aprons for women and children, frilly mob caps, apple and orange pomander balls, soaps, sachet bags and pure bayberry and beeswax candles.

Tuesday's PTA meeting will begin at 8 p.m.

New Service Set

KINGSTON
The Ulster County Association for Mental Health has announced that the Bureau of Education for the Handicapped, U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, has launched a service which seeks to help parents of handicapped children locate services.

Edwin W. Martin, assistant commissioner for the Bureau has said, "We are finally becoming aware of the tremendous burden that is imposed on parents of children who are handicapped, especially emotionally, and multiply handicapped."

The Bureau maintains that it is advisable for the parent, as a first step, to contact the person in charge of special education in his local school system. That person should be able to direct the parent to a testing facility or an educational program.

If the parent has already tried this approach and has been unsuccessful in finding a suitable program, the Bureau advises that the parent contact them at the Office of Education, Washington, D.C.

Handicaps covered by this service are autism, emotional disturbance, learning disabilities and mental retardation.

Bible Study Slated

RHINEBECK
The first phase of Key 73, an ecumenical evangelistic program, will begin in Rhinebeck Nov. 29 with an Ecumenical Bible study that will continue throughout the year.

In 1970 some 130 denominational church bodies agreed to stress the role of evangelism in congregational life during 1973.

The purpose of Key 73 is to confront the people of this continent, more fully and more forcefully, with "the gospel of Jesus Christ by proclamation and demonstration, witness and ministry, word and deed," according to the Rev. H. Henry Naertens, Third Evangelical Lutheran Church of Rhinebeck.

The program will be carried out under six phases with national television, radio, and press support.

The Ecumenical Bible Study will be conducted by Father Hynds and Pastors Reid, Wahlburg, and Kaertens. The classes will be held each Wednesday night beginning at 8 p.m. in the Dutch Reformed Church.

The second phase of Key 73 is entitled "Calling our Continent to Repentance and Prayer." This will begin Dec. 26 with a noon-time call to prayer. The community is invited to participate in all phases of the program.

Cat and Dog Food Makers Must Validate Ad Claims

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Twelve big makers of cat and dog food, who account for 80 per cent of the nation's pet food business, have been given 60 days to substantiate advertising claims that their products are nutritious, meaty, balanced or otherwise good for pets.

Included in the companies named in the Federal Trade Commission order were Liggett & Myers, Inc., which claims Alpo dog food constitutes a complete and balanced diet, and Carnation Co., which alleges that Friskies Puppy Food is a new formula puppy food with "total everything."

The FTC said it was asking for the information as part of a continuing program to determine if major advertising claims are real. It emphasized it was not suggesting that the firms involved were guilty of any violations.

Among the pet food claims for which substantiation was demanded: —Allied Meals Inc., Chicago, that Wayne Dog Food has nearly 9 per cent more protein than other leading brands, is completely nutritious, and is good for a dog's stamina, growth and digestive system. —Campbell Soup Co., that Champion Valley Farms Recipetively aids in getting rid of roundworms in cats and dogs by being added to the animal's dinner once every 30 days. —That Nine Lives, a cat food product of H.J. Hines Co., is nutritious.

—That Alpo, made by Liggett and Myers, constitutes a complete and balanced diet with all the vitamins and minerals needed by a dog and is composed of meat and meat byproducts only.

Living Quarters Found

WEST SHOKAN, Olive Fire Department Chief Albert Fox said that all five companies of the department responded to the 5:10 a.m. alarm, with the Boiceville, Olivebridge, West Shokan and Shokan companies going to the fire and the Sanfordville company doing standby duty.

About 60 firemen laid 2,000 feet of hose to a small stream in -6 degree weather but were unable to save the two story frame structure, whose attic was heavily involved with flames when first firemen arrived. Fox said the fire was believed to have started in the flue of a woodburning stove on the second floor.

Firemen concentrated their efforts on saving a small shed and barn in the rear of the structure, where Charles Barnes, members of his family and friends were living. Fox said a large propane gas tank threatened to blow up and firemen concentrated their efforts on keeping the fire away from it. Barnes and the other 10 persons made homeless by the fire have been installed in temporary quarters in Boiceville, Fox said. Persons wishing to donate clothing and personal items are asked to contact Olson at 657-8021 for details.

ORDER FOR SERVICE OF SUMMONS BY PUBLICATION

Upon reading and filing the Summons and Complaint in this action, the said Complaint, showing the cause of action specified in Subdivision 1 of Section 314 of the Civil Practice Law and Rules, in favor of the plaintiff and against the defendant for an absolute divorce, and upon the affidavit of John A. McStay, sworn to the 16th day of November, 1972, by which the plaintiff has made proof to my satisfaction that the said defendant cannot be served by another prescribed method for an absolute divorce, and mailing having been dispensed with.

NOW, motion of Joseph Avis, Esq., attorney for the plaintiff, it is ORDERED, that the service of the Summons in the above entitled action upon the said defendant, J. McStay, be made by publication thereof in a newspaper in the English language, viz: The Daily Freeman, published in the City of Kingston, State of New York, hereby designated as being most likely to give notice to said defendant, once a week for three successive weeks, together with a notice to the defendant, and a brief statement of the object of the action, and it is further ORDERED, that the Summons, Complaint, Order and papers upon which the said action is based, be published on or before the first day of publication, and that first publication be made within twenty (20) days after the date of this Order, and it is further ORDERED, that Subdivision B of Rule 318 of the Civil Practice Law and Rules be dispensed with since it has been shown to my satisfaction that the whereabouts of the defendant have not been ascertained by the plaintiff in spite of due diligence in that regard so that the making of the Summons prior to the first day of publication would be fruitless, and of no force and effect.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

FAMILY AFFAIR: (Q) My family just loves my boy friend, but I don't. I just go with him. At first we went steady, but I was unhappy doing that. Then we dated other kids, but he was unhappy doing that.

Finally he told me he loved me and I had to go with just him. I said OK because I knew if I didn't do what he wanted my family would be mad at me. But I am very unhappy again going with just him.

Should I go on keeping him and my family happy and being unhappy myself? He is 18 and I am 14. -Trying in Texas. (A.) No.

You should tell your parents you have made a mistake. You should tell them you do not care for the boy and the only reason you are going with him is to please him and them. You should tell them that it is making you unhappy and you want to correct the mistake now before any more damage is done.

Then tell the boy that you don't love him and want to break up with him.

In the future don't make any agreements that you know or suspect will make you unhappy. You are the one who must live your life. Do not mess it up undertaking impractical if not impossible assignments.

FIGHTS: (Q) My parents get drunk nearly every night. I don't say anything because if I do they start out by saying bad things to each other and then they get violent. Please help me. -A Boy in Trouble in Tennessee.

(A.) Show them this letter and answer in the middle of the day when they are sober.

They may not realize how much disturbance they make. They are probably under pressure, and you should try to forgive them. But they should try to be more moderate in their efforts to ease their tensions and frustrations.

(Jean Adams reads and considers every letter, but she regrets that she cannot answer each personally. Mail your questions and comments to Jean Adams, care of The Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77003.)

Quang Tri City Area

S. Viets in Counter-Attack

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese marines supported by U.S. jets rolled back a North Vietnamese counter-attack today in the heaviest fighting around Quang Tri City in two months, field reports said.

Communist gunners fired 3,400 rounds into marine and paratroop positions in the 24 hours ending at 6 a.m. today, the reports said. It was the most intensive barrage in Quang Tri Province, 435 miles north of Saigon, since the North Vietnamese offensive began there March 30 with 3,500 rounds a day.

The biggest battle in the province since Quang Tri City was recaptured by the marines Sept. 16 began at sundown Saturday. It centered on Vinh Hoa Phuung, a farming and fishing village, now largely ruined, on the salt flats and sand dunes seven miles north of Quang Tri City and five miles south of the Cua Viet River. The government troops are staging their deepest northward drive in seven months in the province.

For the past two weeks the marines have been edging slowly northward trying to recapture the mouth of the Cua Viet and deny it to the North Vietnamese, who use it as a supply route. U.S. jets have been dropping mines into the Cua Viet to hamper North Vietnamese supply craft, UPI correspondent Donald A. Davis said.

In the air war, bad weather held U. S. jet fighter bombers down to 30 sorties for the second straight day, the U.S. command said. But the command said B52 bombers during the night resumed heavy bombardment of suspected Communist supply points over the North Vietnamese panhandle after an unexplained one-day decrease in the number of raids over the area.

A command spokesman said

336 of the big planes struck in the panhandle region in the 18-hour period ending at noon today—the average number of strikes the B52s have been flying since Tuesday. But the 24-hour total Sunday was only 15 planes and there was no explanation for the letup.

The command also reported the loss of the ninth plane in Indochina in eight days. It said a U.S. Navy F8 Crusader developed mechanical trouble while returning from a strafing mission Sunday over South Vietnam and the pilot ejected from his crippled plane near the carrier Oriskany. He was fished out of the South China Sea by a rescue helicopter.

At sundown Saturday in Quang Tri, North Vietnamese troops in battalion strength—about 500 men—counter-attacked the marines and supporting tank crews, numbering about 700 men. The North Vietnamese, preceded by a barrage of 1,200 shells, drove through a marine company position and destroyed three tanks but finally were halted when they came up against the battalion's main force half a mile to the south.

By dawn today the marines, reinforced by an additional battalion, had regained their half mile of lost ground, Davis reported.

But it was a costly weekend battle, with 15 marines killed, 68 wounded and 15 missing, according to military sources. The marines also lost two field guns and 18 M16 rifles, the sources said. North Vietnamese casualties were described as heavy.

Kennedy Committee Seeks Hanoi Trip

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate subcommittee headed by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., wants to send a team to Hanoi to seek information about American prisoners and plans to aid refugees in the post-Indochina war period.

Kennedy's Senate refugee subcommittee accepted an invitation last summer from North Vietnam for the visit, staff aides report. But Kennedy is reported still negotiating with Secretary of State William P. Rogers, who is described as feeling such a trip could interfere with a peace settlement.

No member of the Senate itself would make the trip, the subcommittee aides said. They said plans called for sending a nine-member team to Indochina, including three Senate staff members, five doctors and a representative of the Travelers Aid organization. Six members of the team would go to North Vietnam and three to the

It would be the first time a congressional committee has tried to obtain official first-hand knowledge about American POWs and refugees inside North Vietnam.

Dale Dehaan, the refugee subcommittee's counsel, said Sunday the plan called for the team to spend two to three weeks in Indochina and for the six-member delegation to spend one week in North Vietnam.

Dehaan said that if the State Department had its way, "they wouldn't want us to go at all."

"We're trying to reach an understanding with state that this mission is helpful to them, to the Congress and to the White House in terms of the post war rehabilitation of Indochina, but the timing of it is still a problem," Dehaan said.

However, there is no legal way the administration could stop the group, Rogers' approval would be only a formality.

English and Dehaan would be accompanied to North Vietnam by Dr. Nevin Scrimshaw, head of the Department of Nutrition

Truman Biography...Atomic Bomb Discussed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former President Harry S. Truman believed the alternative to the atomic bombing of Japan was an armed invasion possibly costing the lives of 250,000 Americans, Margaret Truman Daniels states in her upcoming biography of her father.

For his decision to proceed with the nuclear bombing, Truman was praised by Winston Churchill as the savior of Western civilization, Mrs. Daniel writes in the latest segment of her book, "Harry S. Truman," excerpts of which were published in Life magazine.

Mrs. Daniels describes a mock trial held after a dinner party in the White House when Churchill was "tried" for his role in bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki in the last stages of World War II.

The then British Prime Minister has said to Truman

"Mr. President, I hope you have your answer ready for that hour when you and I stand before Saint Peter and he says: 'I understand you two are responsible for putting off those atomic bombs. What have you got to say for yourselves?'"

The "trial" involving Churchill's role then began with court officers and a jury selected from among the dinner guests—Defense Secretary Robert Lovett, W. Averell Harriman, Gen. Omar Bradley and Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

Truman was judge and the guests assumed historic roles, with Bradley as Alexander the Great. Others played Socrates, Julius Caesar and Aristotle.

Churchill, winning "acquittal," later confessed to Truman he once thought little of him as a successor to Franklin D. Roosevelt, but "I misjudged you badly. Since that time, you, more than any other man, have saved Western civilization."

In later years Truman said of the atomic bombing: "I could not worry about what history would say about my personal morality. I made the only decision I ever knew how to make. I did what I thought was right."

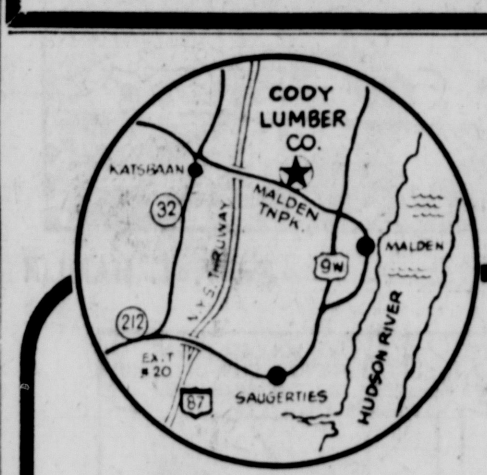

Mrs. Daniels said Truman considered the alternative was a massive troop invasion of Japan in which an estimated 250,000 Americans would be killed and 500,000 maimed.

Mrs. Daniels' book also discusses the chilliness which existed between her father and Dwight D. Eisenhower before the latter's inauguration. Eisenhower, was apparently unhappy because Truman had ordered his Army son, John Eisenhower, home from Korea to attend his father's inauguration. Eisenhower believed his son's return from the war might be viewed as favoritism and thought the order was made to embarrass him.

Rescue Effort Fails in Belfast

DUBLIN (UPI) — Thousands of supporters surged around a Dublin hospital until early today demanding the release of Sean MacStiofain, the leader of the Irish Republican Army's extremist Provisional wing. Hundreds of police guarded against any more efforts by followers to rescue him.

One rescue effort Sunday by men dressed as Roman Catholic priests and hospital orderlies left four persons wounded after a gunfight in the Mater Hospital where MacStiofain is a patient.

In Belfast, gunmen killed a teen-age boy today and wounded his father and brother in an ambush of their car on a busy street today.

In violence Sunday, the British army said troops hit at least 11 gunmen during six hours of shooting in three Catholic districts of Belfast.

The Dublin violence ended early today after MacStiofain's wife convinced his supporters—estimated at 40,000 by IRA spokesmen, at 15,000 by newsmen and at 5,000 by police—to disperse. About one dozen persons remained behind in an all night vigil.

For four hours MacStiofain supporters surged against police barriers while shouting for his freedom, scuffling with police, smashing windows and hurling rocks. They ignored appeals from demonstration leaders to go home.

MacStiofain, sentenced to six months in jail Saturday on charges of belonging to an illegal organization—the outlawed Irish Republican Army—is undergoing treatment in the hospital for the effects of a hunger strike he declared after his arrest nine days ago.

An eight-member IRA gang tried to spirit MacStiofain away

Sunday in a daring raid on the hospital. Seven of its members were captured during and after a gun fight outside the ward housing the 45-year-old IRA chieftain.

The gang slipped past police guards during visiting time Sunday, then whipped out guns from under their black cassocks and white smocks. They seized a nun, jabbed a pistol in her back and, using her as a shield, held three policemen at gunpoint.

"Move," they said, "and we will blow your heads off." But one policeman dived into a room to radio for reinforcements. The nun broke away as the shootout started, joining dozens of patients and visitors who dived under beds or fled.
